Oswald Buried; Evidence Piles Up Against Him

Had Map With Assassination Site Marked

DALLAS (AP)—Lee Harvey Oswald was taken to a cemetery almost in secret Monday while the eyes of a saddened nation were turned half a continent away to the last solemn rites of the chief executive he was accused of killing.

Meanwhile investigators were preparing to place on public view the arsenal of evidence they say proves beyond all doubt Oswald was the assassin who took the life of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

District Attorney Henry Wade confirmed that a map, with the site of the assassination clearly plotted, was found in Oswald's Dallas apartment.

Meanwhile, the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed that an anonymous telephone caller had warned an attempt would be made on Oswald's life during his transfer from city to county jail.

The FBI said it relayed the tip to Dallas police several hours before the transfer.

It was during the transfer that Oswald was gunned down by night club owner Jack Ruby in a frightening moment viewed by thousands on television.

Because of the anonymous tip, police said they had an armored car waiting outside for Oswald—but he never made it to the car.

Ruby Transferred

Ruby, Oswald's self-appointed executioner, was himself transferred from city to county jail Monday without incident.

Oswald's transfer had been announced in advance and a crowd of about 200 gathered, among them Ruby. Ruby's own transfer, however, was made quickly and without prior notice.

Associated Press photographer Mike Smith said an unmarked white car pulled up Monday behind the city jail, almost at the identical spot where Oswald was mortally wounded.

Ruby, handcuffed and flanked by two detectives on each side, was whisked into the car and placed prone on the seat.

Meanwhile, an almost forgotten figure in the drama of the assassination — police officer J.D. Tippit—was buried Monday in Laurel Land Park, in a section of the cemetery reserved for persons giving their lives in some special service.

The patrolman died trying to capture Oswald during the frenzied moments following the assassination.

Tippit, 39, was the father of three children. He earned $450 a month after 11 years on the force. Fellow officers have started a fund for his widow and family.

Oswald Buried At Ft. Worth

Oswald shot Tippit three times as the policemen closed in to arrest him. The report of his death led to Oswald's swift capture.

Oswald, the 24-year-old professed Communist was buried at Rose Hill Cemetery in Fort Worth, about 30 miles from here. Fort Worth is the home of his mother, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald.

Only a handful of relatives, witnessed the rites, including his 22-year-old widow, Marina, their two small children, and his brother, Robert Oswald of Denton.

A Fort Worth minister, the Rev. Louis Saunders, conducted the services. There were no pallbearers. Police helped attendants carry the wooden coffin from a chapel on the cemetery grounds to the grave site.

The map which police say they found in Oswald's apartment had x-marks at various

Ruby Contends He Shot Oswald "On Impulse"

DALLAS (UPI) — Flashy Jack Ruby, shorn of his finery and in baggy prison garb, told his lawyer Monday he shot Lee Harvey Oswald on impuse to avenge the sorrowing Kennedy family for what he thought was a Communist assassination plot.

Defense attorney Tom Howard, affirming that the up-from-the slums night club owner would plead temporary insanity, said Ruby told him he had no previous connection with Oswald and never laid eyes on him before his arrest for the assassination last Friday.

Howard said Ruby told him he drove several times around the spot where the President was ambushed and shortly afterward slid into a crowd of newsmen, leaped out and shot Oswald "on the spur of the moment."

Ruby was willing to take a lie detector test, he said, provided it is confined only to the shooting and the events leading up to it.

Howard said he did not discuss with the onetime penny ante Chicago gambler and street brawler how he slipped past the stringent police security rings Sunday in the basement of the city hall where city jail is located.

Howard quoted Ruby as saying the first time in his life that he saw the 24-year-old Oswald was last Friday night "in the room in the police station."

At that time, Ruby had sidled into a group of newsmen in police headquarters who were trying to question Oswald.

Howard said Ruby told him:

"I saw that Oswald was smiling and so cocky. He acted so proud of what he had done. I could not get out of my mind that the Communists had sent Oswald to kill our president. I kept thinking about how Jackie had suffered and how Caroline and John wouldn't have a daddy.

"I kept thinking about a letter to Caroline I had seen in the paper. It was so sad."

Asked why Ruby was carrying a pistol, if it was a spur-of-the-moment thing, Howard replied that he often carried large sums of money and had a considerable amount of cash with him Sunday.

Salinger To Disclose Jackie's Future Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and her children stayed in the White House Monday night.

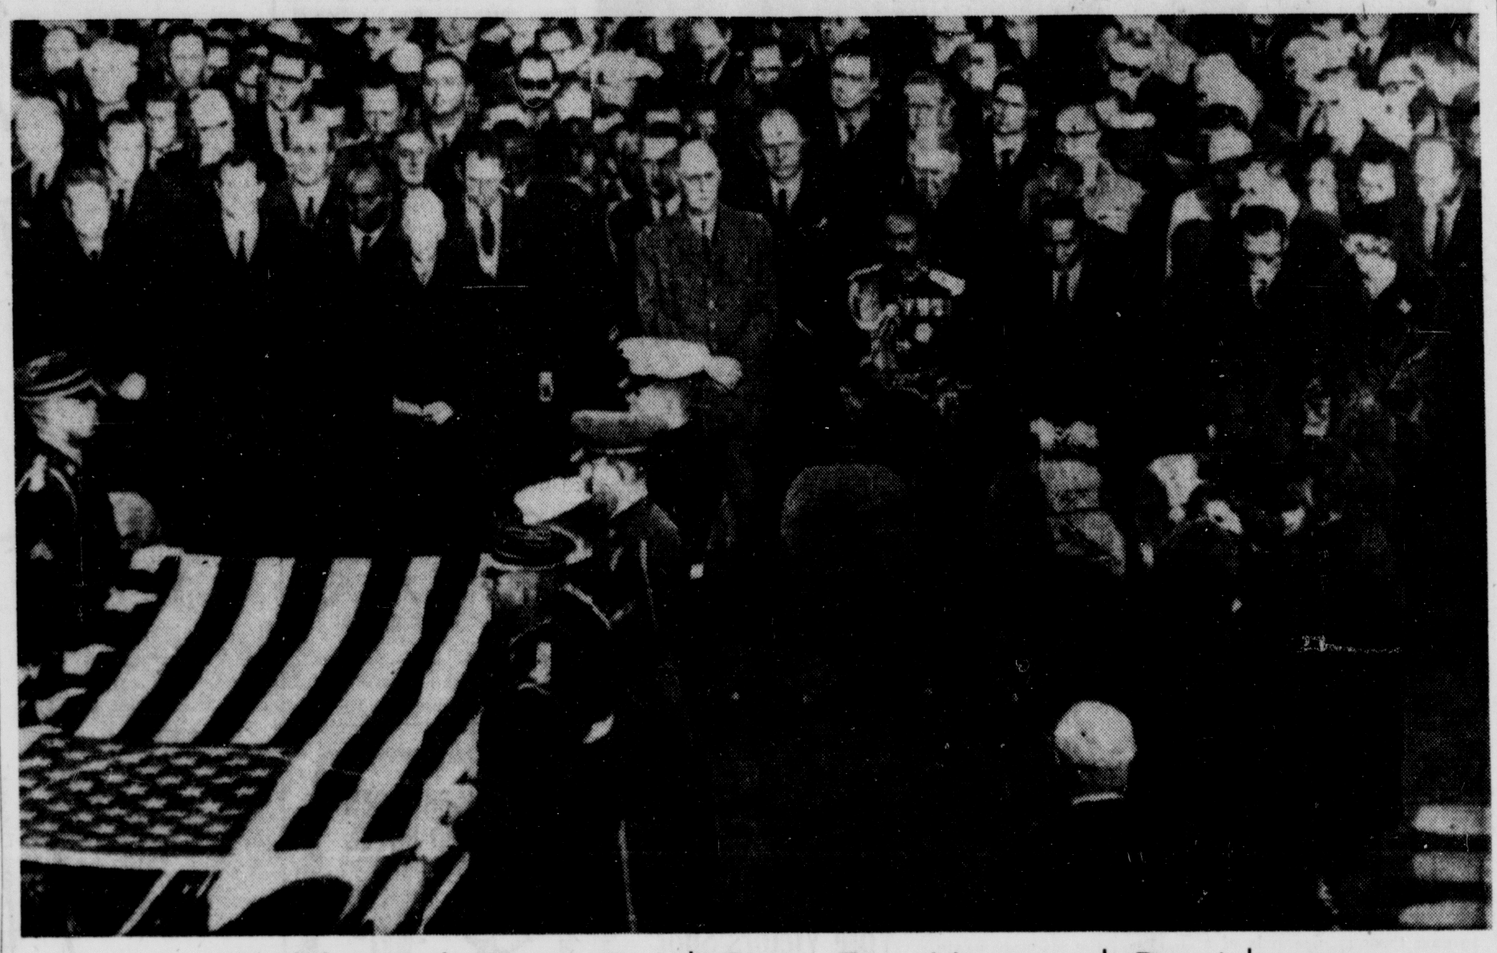

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said he would announce the future plans of the President's widow Tuesday.

Staying with Mrs. Kennedy Monday night was her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of London.

Great And Humble Pay Final Homage To Slain President

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The peace of eternity came in an Arlington grave Monday to John F. Kennedy, whose quest for enduring peace in a dangerous world was cut short by an assassin's bullet.

And over his resting place will burn an eternal flame.

In death as in life, world statesmen—men of power and renown from half the nations of the world—honored the fallen President. They had come here in unprecedented numbers and in mourning.

The new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, and former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman mourned the passing of the man who had served in the same high office they have held.

But it was Jacqueline Kennedy, sustained by some unknown strength through three racking days of grief, who touched a torch to the eternal light on the grave of her husband.

Stumbles Leaving Gravesite

But at the last this lady in black, with the long veil disguising some of her sorrow and weariness, stumbled just a bit as she left the site of the burial of the 35th president on a gentle slope of Arlington National Cemetery.

The services at the graveside were those of the Roman Catholic Church, for the first Roman Catholic to reach the White House.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, an old friend of the Kennedy family, said the final ritualistic prayers and sprinkled the casket with Holy Water before it was lowered into the grave.

And it was Cushing who had celebrated a Requiem Low Mass for the departed President at St. Matthew's Cathedral in the heart of Washington.

In the colorful vestments of his high church office, the cardinal invoked the blessings and mercy of God upon Kennedy and his family. And for the family he offered communion and personal words of comfort.

Widow, Notables March

Mrs. Kennedy and others of the family, along with President and Mrs. Johnson, and the assemblage of notables from over the world had marched in the funeral procession the eight blocks from the White House to the cathedral. There were presidents, royalty, chiefs of state, foreign ministers and defense ministers in the gathering.

Towering Charles de Gaulle, president of France, dwarfed diminutive Haile Selassie, emperor of Ethiopia. They were side by side for part of the procession and for all the graveside ceremonies—each in uniform.

There were brilliant red fezzes and purple robes worn by some of the foreigners.

For the Cabinet, the Supreme Court and other American dignitaries in the funeral procession, the dress of the day was morning coats and striped trousers.

But it was a day for humble people as well as the mighty. It was a day of the mournful, slow tolling of church bells, of marching military men and the roll and beat of muffled drums.

Johnson's New Administration Wins First Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tie-breaking proxy vote in the Senate Banking Committee gave President Johnson's new administration its first congressional victory Monday.

By an 8-7 margin the committee recommended against passage of a proposal by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., which threatens to block sale of surplus U.S. grain to Iron Curtain countries.

Mundt has maintained he is not against the sales but wants to ban use of government loans or financing guaranteeing that American sellers will be paid for the grain they ship to Russia and its satellites.

The measure now goes back to the Senate for its consideration, possibly Tuesday or Wednesday. At stake is the sale of some 150 million bushels of wheat to the Iron Curtain countries approved by the late President Kennedy.

The committee vote first was announced as a 7-7 tie, but Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., sent his proxy to provide the margin against it.

The committee had voted earlier 9 to 5 against tabling or killing the bill but three Democrats switched their votes. On the first vote Sens. Edward V. Long of Missouri and Thomas J. McIntyre of New Hampshire voted against tabling and Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger of Oregon was not registered. But they then voted against the measure.

Grieving Nation Pauses To Honor Fallen Leader

By The Associated Press

A saddened nation paused in respectful silence Monday as martyred President John F. Kennedy was laid to rest among other heroes in Arlington National Cemetery.

Men and women everywhere were united in paying tribute to their fallen leader. Streets the width and breadth of the land were deserted while the services were held. Everyone who could followed the tragic proceedings on television.

In Dallas, Tex., where an assassin's bullets cut short Kennedy's life and where the assassin himself was slain, the atmosphere was one of reverence.

Thousands visited the site where the President was shot. People milled around in small groups gazing at the myried flower arrangements marking the spot.

The flower arrangements carried various messages. One read "God Forgive Us All." Another, "God Bless You, President Kennedy."

Tributes took various forms.

Radio Crop. of American telegraph facilities halted transmissions from noon to 12:05 p.m. (EST). The same tribute was arranged with French cable.

A similar observance was arranged by Western Union International and Western Union Telegraph Co., starting at 1 p.m. EST.

The Associated Press silenced its wires while taps were sounded at Arlington Cemetery at 3:06 p.m. EST.

All ground operations were suspended at New York's Idlewild Airport for one minute.

New York Central railroad trains were halted for one minute at noon, as were Northern Pacific and Milwaukee Road trains.

In New York's Times Square pedestrians stood with bowed heads for two minutes. Traffic had been diverted from the normally bustling area.

The city's schools and colleges were closed for the day, as were many businesses. Amusements were bloacked out.

Black bunting was draped over colonades of City Hall, and flags were at half staff throughout the city.

As in many other states, it was a legal day of mourning throughout New York by pro-

LBJ, De Gaulle To Hold Formal Talks Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson reached agreement with French President Charles de Gaulle Monday night for a fullscale exchange of views here early in 1964.

This diplomatic stroke climaxed a long and strenous day which saw the new President meeting with foreign and domestic leaders after participating in the last rites for President Kennedy.

De Gaulle was one of 17 top foreign executives with whom Johnson had brief private talks but the outcome of his 18-minute session with the tall Frenchman far outweighed anything resulting from the other sessions.

De Gaulle has stood in opposition to many of the international policies which Kennedy sponsored and which Johnson is pledged to pursue so a meeting between the two presidents could have heavy bearing on the whole pattern of the Western alliance.

Johnson did not disclose any details of the meeting, if, indeed, any have been agreed upon. He broke the important diplomatic news obliquely when he apologized for being late for a session with state governors. He explained he had been meeting with De Gaulle and "we decided he would come back and talk some more early next year."

The President also held private meetings Monday night with Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda and Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson, and the representatives of 14 other nations after a huge diplomatic reception at which he was host to more than 200 foreign dignitaries here for the funeral.

Elder Kennedy Mourns Alone

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) Joseph P. Kennedy mourned alone Monday as his President son, John F. Kennedy, was laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery.

Outside his home a flag whipped in the breeze, at half staff on the flagpole at the center of a little traffic circle near the front door.

The elder Kennedy, former U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, went to his own second floor quarters in his big, rambling summer home and remained there during the midday funeral mass and the procession to the cemetery.

The senior Kennedy, crippled by a stroke he suffered almost two years ago, chose to remain at his summer home while others of his family were in Washington for the funeral.

John Jr. Salutes Father's Casket

WASHINGTON (AP—On his birthday, John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr., three years old, stood at attention and saluted Monday as an honor guard placed the casket of his father on a caisson set to roll toward Arlington National Cemetery.

The little boy had just stepped out of St. Matthew's Cathedral, clutching the hand of his mother, the widowed Jacqueline Kennedy. His sister, Caroline, also held on to her mother. John Jr. carried a book, probably a prayer book, in his free hand.

An honor guard of nine servicemen bore the casket to the caisson. John Jr. looked up at his mother. She whispered to him. He gave her the book and then stopped clutching her hand.

Suddenly his tiny right hand shot up in a smart salute.

Chairman Postpones Republican Activity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman William B. Miller postponed Monday night a December meeting of the Republican National Committee and said "total suspension of partisan political activity is called for" during the period of mourning for President Kennedy.

Miller put off the Dec. 11-14 meeting until January at the earliest and said in a statement "I pledge that our party will stand with the new administration in this tragically unexpected process of transition." The national committee and its convention-planning committee was to have met at Minneapolis.

Air Pact Signed

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Cambodia and Communist China signed a commercial aviation agreement Monday. Planes of both countries will fly routes between Canton, Shanghai and Phnom Penh.

FBI Will Report On JFK Slaying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is preparing a detailed report of the assassination of President Kennedy—and all the details will be made public, the White House announced Monday night.

President Johnson directed the Justice Department and the FBI "to conduct a prompt and thorough investigation of all the circumstances surrounding the brutal assassination of President Kennedy and the murder of his alleged assassin."

The White House said Johnson has "directed all federal agencies to cooperate, and the people of the nation may be sure that all of the facts will be made public."

The announcement came after Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, assistant Democratic House leader, suggested a high level congressional investigation of Kennedy's assassination.

Johnson Will Press For Tax Cut, Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson told governors of 35 states Monday night that he will seek prompt congressional approval of President Kennedy's tax cut and civil rights programs.

Johnson received a standing ovation from the state leaders after appealing for bi-partisan backing in a moment of crisis following the assassination of President Kennedy.

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller said Johnson told the group that he would speak to Congress and request action on both the tax cut and civil rights measures originally requested by Kennedy.

Johnson has arranged to address a joint session of Congress

Nina Khrushchev Weeps As She Leads Russians In Final Tribute To Kennedy

MOSCOW (AP) — Nina Khrushchev, with tears in her eyes, led Muscovites in paying last respects Monday to President Kennedy.

But as the wife of the premier and Russians mourned, the Communist propaganda machine continued to denounce the killing of Lee Harvey Oswald as part of a right-wing plot that took the President's life.

Russians in Moscow watched President Kennedy's funeral live on television via the Relay satellite. Some Russians turned out during the day for separate Roman Catholic and Protestant memorial services for Americans and members of the diplomatic corps.

Mrs. Khrushchev did not attend the services but, as her husband had done on Saturday, she called at Spasso House, residence of U. S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler.

As the head of the American-Soviet Friendship Society, she met the ambassador and Mrs. Kohler for 15 minutes and signed a book of condolences.

She came out arm in arm with Mrs. Kohler and tears glistened in her eyes. The two women then said goodby.

Soviet propaganda organs expressed doubt and suspicion about the slaying of Oswald, 24, self-professed Marxist accused of assassinating the President. News media provided blanket coverage of the two sensational killings.

The government paper Izvestia accompanied its extensive reports with fresh pictures of crowds of mourners waiting to file past the President's bier in the Capitol and a dramatic picture of Jack Ruby shooting Oswald. The Soviet news agency Tass gave running coverage to the President's funeral and at one point commented: "All the peoples of the world share the profound grief of the American people."

Oswald's slaying was viewed here as a propaganda windfall for the Soviet bloc.

The Soviet line, until Sunday, maintained that Oswald was an innocent dupe who was being used by right-wing elements to fan anti-Soviet and anti-Cuban hatred. The new line depicts the Oswald killing as an attempt to cover the traces of the President's assassin—again by so-called rightist - Fascist elements who are being accused here of both slayings.

Probe Of Assassination By Congress Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A high-level congressional investigation of President Kennedy's assassination was suggested Monday—now that the facts cannot be put on record by a trial of the man accused of firing the fatal shots.

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, assistant Democratic leader of the House, said in an interview, "There should be a congressional investigation. It should be a blue-ribbon inquiry, far above any suggestion of partisanship."

Boggs said the killing Sunday of Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, who had been charged with the rifle assassination Friday of Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., makes it especially important for Congress to establish the full facts and provide answers to any questions which still may remain in Americans' minds.

A public trial of Oswald, he said, would have been a forum for detailing the evidence—which Dallas authorities have called conclusive — and would have shown whether further investigation was needed. Oswald maintained he was innocent.

Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, said he intends to introduce a bill making any assault upon a president, vice president, or any federal official of Cabinet rank, a federal crime.

Such legislation, Ayres said, would enable the FBI to take jurisdiction immediately in the investigation of such an offense.

The shooting of President Kennedy, as he rode in an open automobile on a public street, was, legally speaking, murder, and so an offense against state rather than federal law.

Viet Nam Reds Smash Hamlets; 1,000 Missing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Massive Communist attacks wiped out two strategic hamlets in the north, and more than 1,000 of the mountain tribesman defenders are missing, military sources said Monday.

Climaxing 48 hours of big Viet Cong guerrilla attacks, the twin battle was the worst Vietnamese setback since bloody fighting last January.

Whether the mountaineers were captured, fled into the mountains or went with the Communist guerrillas was not clear from meager details arriving in the Vietnamese capital.

One of the main aims of the strategic hamlet program was to give these mountaineers a barricaded refuge where they could not be cajoled or forced into supporting the guerrillas.

The Communist attack began rolling Sunday morning against the strategic hamlets of Dak Rode and Plei Kobay. They are close to each other in the mountains where the borders of South Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos join, about 250 miles north.

The hamlets are in the path of one route taken by guerrillas and supplies coming down the so-called Ho Chi Minh trail from Communist North Viet Nam through Laos and the Cambodian frontier.

The savagery of the attacks has risen in the past 48 hours. Viet Cong units also have smashed army outposts in many areas in this period and have captured enough U.S. weapons to equip several of their battalions, military sources reported.

In a mimeographed statement, Police Chief Jesse Curry said his department would make public its entire dossier of evidence against Oswald unless federal authorities object.

The statement did not say how long Curry would wait for such objection, nor would Curry comment beyond the words of the statement.

One further piece of evidence in addition to the map was reported Monday, however. District Attorney Wade said Oswald's fingerprints were on the $12 mail-order rifle which fired the fatal bullet.

Previously Wade had reported Oswald's palm print was on the rifle, and also on a box found near the sixth-floor window where the killer sat.

In Philadelphia, police attached black bands to badges in memory of the late President. The bell at Grace Episcopal Church at Honesdale, Pa., tolled 46 times at noon, once for each year of Kennedy's life.

In San Francisco, Navy warships in the bay fired 21-gun salutes. The bell of the campanile on the University of California campus at Berkeley, where Kennedy last year took part in centennial ceremonies, tolled during the funeral service.

Kennedy Laid To Rest In Arlington

It was a day for hundreds of thousands of plain Americans to pour out in person along the way a final measure of homage to the young President whose life was cut short at 46 by a rifle bullet in Dallas, Texas, last Friday.

In vast throngs, upwards of a quarter million of them, they had streamed unceasingly past Kennedy's bier in the rotunda of the capitol for 18 hours. Some had waited as long as 10 hours, in a line reaching out nearly 10 miles, for a mere minute beside the casket lying beneath the great Capitol dome.

In vast throngs, they crowded up to the streets along which the funeral cortege moved on a long route that began at the Capitol Plaza, paused at the White House for marchers on foot, continued on to the cathedral and finally ended among the ordered ranks of the graves of men who, like Kennedy, served the nation in wartime.

Largely, they were silent crowds, with people showing their sorrow here and there with an occasional tear or sob.

There were moments of tremendous poignancy.

Little John Kennedy, Jr. was 3 years old Monday, a little too young to understand birthdays or what had happened to his daddy. But as the casket was borne from the cathedral in early afternoon to begin the three-mile journey to Arlington, the little fellow handed his mother a book he was carrying and saluted the caisson.

John-John, as his father called him, and his sister Caroline, who will be 6 Wednesday, were spared the trip to the cemetery.

The shadows cast by a mellowing winter sun were lengthening when the funeral procession came at its measured pace through the huge iron gateway up the foot of the Arlington Heights sweeping up from the Potomac River.

Slowly the six matched gray horses drawing the caisson made their way to a spot near the open grave. The site was below the crest of a hill, perhaps 200 feet from the Custis-Lee mansion with its columned portico.

No one ever had been buried in that particular area. But then, only one other president, William Howard Taft, is buried in this national cemetery overlooking the capital.

Military casket bearers, four on either side, carried the coffin to the open grave. It still wore the flag which had shrouded it for three days.

Mrs. Kennedy and her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, took their places a few feet away, heads bowed. The late President's mother, Rose, was there, and others of the family.

With the ancient rites of the church, Cardinal Cushing prayed for the fallen Kennedy: "The Lord be with you and with thy spirit."

A 21-gun presidential salute shattered the solemnity and stillness and seemed to last interminably. The uniformed mourners, from presidents and emperors down to American privates, snapped to salute.

The Stars and Stripes on the tall shaft before the mansion on the hill hung limply at half-staff.

But Mrs. Kennedy, with eyes closed at times, stood starkly erect.

A volley of musketry fire shattered the stillness again.

And then from a lone bugler, the swelling, lingering notes of "Taps," sorrowful yet somehow sweet, flooded over the hillside and out across the row on row of graves of 126,000 other men who have served their country.

The presidential jet which had borne Kennedy to Dallas and then home from there in a casket, flashed overhead in a farewell salute.

The melody of the "Navy Hymn" swelled softly from a band, down the slope, with its magnificent foreground of the arches of Memorial Bridge; the huge, square, white memorial to Abraham Lincoln; the giant needle of the Washington Monument and the mass of the Capitol building far beyond.

The body bearers lifted the flag from the casket, folded it carefully and gently into a neat triangle. In the tradition of the services, this was for Mrs. Kennedy. She took it and pressed it to her bosom.

The casket was covered quickly with a blanket of grass.

A lighted torch appeared. It was handed to Mrs. Kennedy and she touched it to the top of the grave to light the eternal flame. Atty. Gen. Kennedy and his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, repeated this act of family honor to the dead chief executive. It was the family which had asked that the light be installed.

Slowly, with Robert Kennedy holding her hand, as he had done many times through the day, Mrs. Kennedy walked away from the grave, still clutching the flag.

Two Philippines Vote Victors Shot

MANILA (AP)—Two mayors, who won reelection in the Nov. 12 vote, were shot over the weekend, one of them fatally.

The mayor of Manolo Fortich, on Mindanao Island, was killed Saturday night by a shot fired through a window while he was playing mah-jong. A companion was wounded.

The mayor of San Luis, on Luzon Island, was shot and wounded Sunday night by the rival party's defeated candidate for deputy mayor, the constabulary said. A companion of the mayor was killed.

Police Officer Who Died Hero Buried In Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The panoply and pomp, the awesome grandeur and tragedy of a president's funeral were at an end Monday in Washington when there arose in Dallas a faint echoing dirge.

On a gentle hilltop near the southern limits of the city at 3:40 p. m., the body of J. D. Tippit was surrendered to the Texas earth. He was a police officer, a family man, well-liked —and he died a hero.

He was the dark-haired 39-year-old police officer who was shot to death last Friday by Lee Harvey Oswald, immediately after President John F. Kennedy's assassination. Had he not intercepted Oswald, the accused assassin might have escaped.

"There is no telling where he would have been," said Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry. "He might already have been out of the country."

Tippit paid with his life for devotion to duty, just as Kennedy sacrificed his to the role of chief executive. Oswald, in turn, was killed Sunday during a jail transfer.

None of these men knew each other, yet history brought them together in fatal rendezvous. Monday they went separately to their graves—Kennedy, world leader; Tippit, dutiful cop; Oswald, accused assassin.

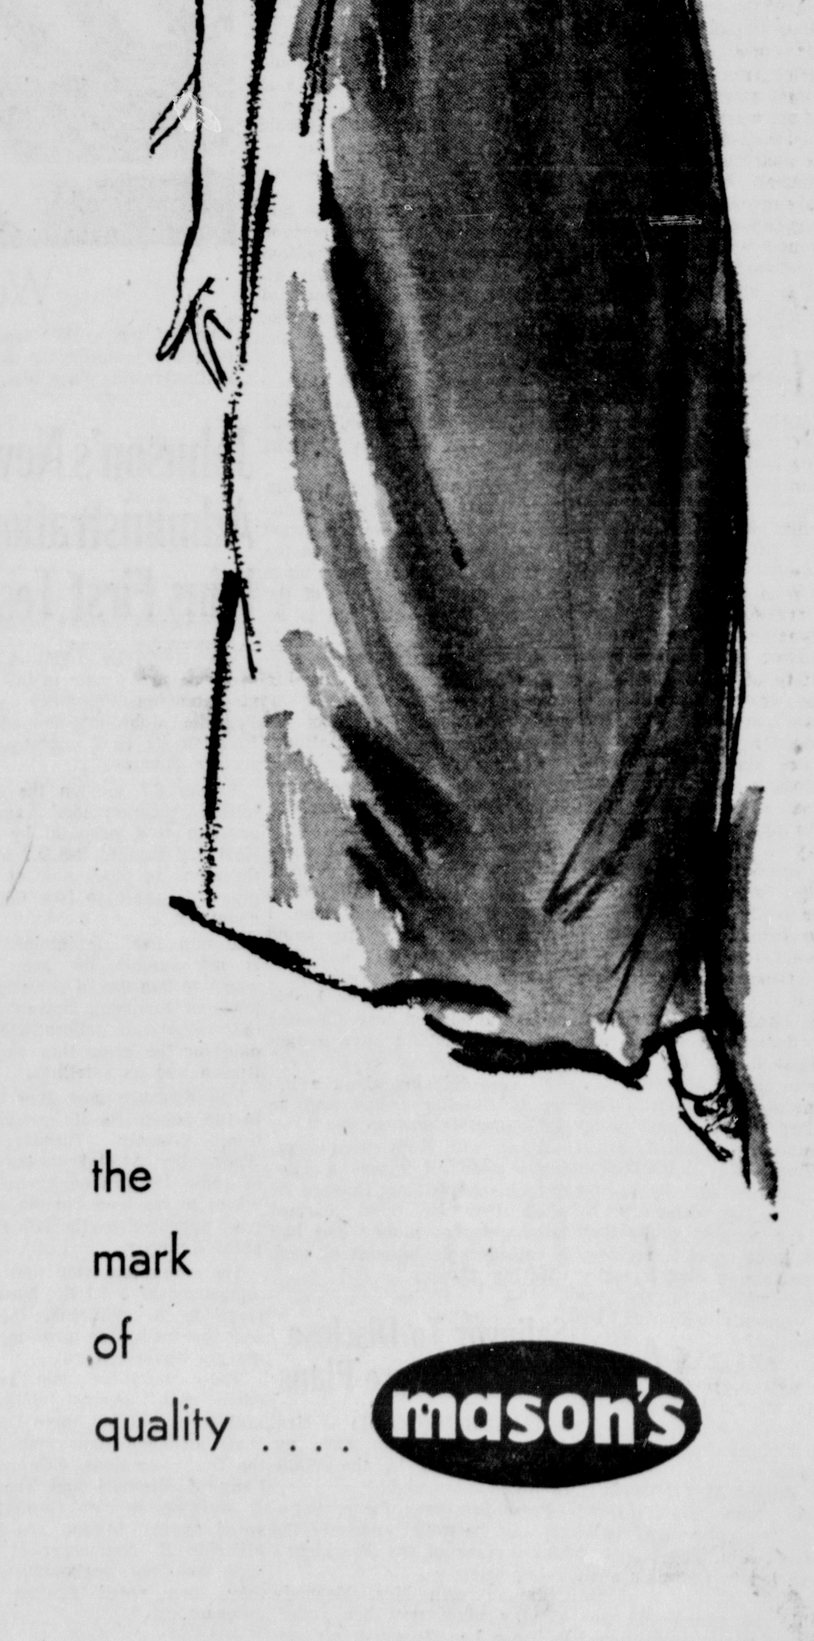

Tippit, who earned $490 a month, was buried from the Beckley Hills Baptist Church.

Churches Full, Stores Empty As Md. Mourns

By The Associated Press

Flags still at midstaff, sparsely peopled streets, empty shops and full churches were part of a day of mourning in Maryland Monday.

Officials marked the day by making the grim journey to the capital to attend the dead President's funeral.

The ordinary managed in their own way to pay humble homage to John F. Kennedy, buried under clear skies in Arlington National Cemetery.

In Baltimore, Frederick, Cambridge, Salisbury, indeed throughout the state, schools, offices, banks, stores and bars closed, if only for an hour or two, to solemnize the day of mourning.

At the Naval Academy in Annapolis a special mass was said and a special Protestant communion service was held.

The Academy's Catholic choir, about 145 strong, went to Washington and sang hymns at the White House as the funeral party left for St. Matthew's Church.

In downtown Baltimore traffic police seemed superfluous as only an occasional car or bus passed ordinarily busy street corners.

In Frederick city bells tolled at 11 a.m. In Cambridge a veterans' group held a memorial service at the edge of the Choptank River.

Salisbury was quiet.

In almost every community the closing of stores was announced by small, sometimes handwritten, signs tacked to window and door:

"We are closed today in tribute to the death of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy."

And so it went. Hundreds of thousands watched the mournful procession on television or heard an account of it on radio. Reactions varied from grief, to anger, or disbelief.

On Tuesday the state returns to business as usual.

Gov. Connally Watches On TV

DALLAS (UPI) —Texas Gov. John Connally, gathering strength with each passing day, watched President Kennedy's funeral on television Monday with his wife, Nellie, at his side.

Connally was wounded by the same sniper who assassinated President Kennedy.

He was under a tight security guard. Two Department of Public Safety officers stood at the entrance to his room. Twenty highway patrolmen were sent into the Dallas area from Tyler, Tex., Sunday to guard the governor.

Connally's pulse, respiration and temperature were normal Monday.

The 46-year-old Texas chief executive will be in Parkland Memorial Hospital for about two weeks. Some of the governor's staff arrived Sunday from the state capital and established a 24-hour-a-day office on the first floor of the hospital.

The governor lost the fifth rib on his right side in surgery. Doctors were successful in patching a hole in his right lung. They expect him to recover fully.

The grant was made by the National Institutes of Health to support his research on the metabolism of steroid hormones, a project involving cancer of the prostate.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland has reaffirmed its opposition to the financing of medical care for the elderly through the social security program.

Dr. Karl F. Mech, chairman of the faculty's legislative committee, stated the opposition in a paper submitted to House Ways and Means Committee.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Richard F. Quarles, 24, and Donald Shields, 20, have been charged with last Thursday's $1,237 robbery of an East Baltimore finance company office.

Quarles was arrested shortly after the robbery in a nearby elementary school which was the scene of a manhunt by scores of police. Shields was arrested soon thereafter.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Robert A. Napoletano told Baltimore County police his home was burglarized of $11,600 in cash and personal property over the weekend.

Ecumenical Council Calls For Free Press

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council stamped final approval Monday on an appeal to civil authorities throughout the world to assure freedom of information.

The council ratified a decree of mass communications, such as the press, radio, television and the arts. The vote was 1,598 to 503, with 11 null ballots. The required two-thirds majority was 1,408.

Approval of the document came in a council session subdued by references to the death of President Kennedy.

The document states: "The free flow of information must be protected by civil authorities." This appears aimed at censorship in both Communist and non-Communist countries.

An easy way to keep cracked eggs from leaking or deteriorating is to seal them with cellophane tape.

Autopsy Ordered In Woman's Death

The woman, whose address was listed as Brooklyn Park, Md., was found at the Elkridge Motel on Washington Boulevard.

Do not line the oven floor with aluminum foil because it may interfere with the proper circulation of heat in the oven. Foil may also become overheated and adhere to the oven bottom, making cleaning almost impossible. For catching drips from oven foods, it is wiser to use a smaller piece of foil on the rack directly under the baking pan and to use aerosol oven cleaner to wipe away the spatters the foil doesn't catch.

Juniors Fashion Forecast

Forecasting fashion for the young can sometimes be as tricky as forecasting the weather! But this season the look is obvious: it's opulence all the way and the fabulous fabrics on the fashion scene are a sure barometer of the trend.

To pamper this penchant for "dressing up" a collection of confections to tickle the teenage fancy and suit every exciting occasion on a youthful Holiday agenda, is available. Here's a collection that spotlights both the long and the short of the evening situation — with festive formals, date-wise dresses, and elegant ensembles for after-dark all accounted for.

In a season when the luxe look is the one to set your cap for . . . fabrics are bound to be every bit as important as line and design, and this collection highlights as fanciful an assemblage of fabrics as anyone could crave . . . running the gamut from sumptuous satins to shimmery metallics to beautiful brocades.

So, whatever the holidays ahead hold in store for you—you'll find the fashion forecast couldn't be clearer: it's for all-out fun and for fashions that can't help but make your gayest evenings more so!

A Christmas tree will not remain fresh throughout the holiday season if it fails to receive adequate watering. In addition to the tree's appearance, a vital safety factor is involved: when a tree dries out it may become highly combustible.

A holiday tomato soup: In a large saucepan, dilute one 6-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate with three juice-cans water; stir in two 10½-ounce cans tomato soup, undiluted; heat to a slow simmer; serve hot or, if you wish, serve chilled. Makes about 7¾-cup servings.

After Christmas, your tree can be useful as a windbreak. If delicate shrubs around your home are exposed to strong winds, trees can be used for protection. Gather trees from neighbors and place them in the ground in rows or clumps.

Elda Schell Is Elected LaVale Auxiliary Head

The auditing committee consists of Mrs. Flo Alexander, Mrs. Emma Youngblood and Mrs. Carrie Eshbaugh. Mrs. Lelia Lancaster was chosen guard and Mrs. Leola Knieriem, reporter.

Installation will be held in conjunction with the meeting and Christmas party on December 7. At that time also the "firewoman of the year" awards will be made and jingle gifts exchanged.

Chairmen for the Christmas party were named. They are Mrs. Gladys Burkey, Mrs. Vera Jewell, Mrs. Susan Dick, gifts; Mrs. Flo Alexander, Miss Mildred Beck, Miss Margaret Beck, entertainment; Mrs. Youngblood, Mrs. Bessie Zembower, Mrs. Lancaster, Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower, Mrs. Leona McClellan and Mrs. Knieriem, table decorations; and Mrs. Elizabeth Moody, Mrs. Youngblood and Mrs. Vera Jewell, awards committee.

Mrs. Youngblood, sunshine chairman, reported she had sent a plant to Mrs. Edna German in the hospital, and a sympathy card to Mrs. Naomi Frost.

Oven-prepared foods often deposit vapors and greases on the oven lining. This film is easier to remove if cleaned with handy aersol oven cleaner at frequent intervals.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You baffle me with your sureness on tipping. You say the person who under-tips is ignorant and the one who over-tips is gauche. Yet, if you were to question five experts on the correct percentages for tipping you would get ten pieces of information—all conflicting.

It is unfortunate that so many people depend on tips for a living but it remains embarrassing, even for a seasoned traveler like myself, because I always feel I have over-tipped or under-tipped, thus proving to somebody that I am ignorant or gauche.

I'm ready to start an international union of anti-tippers if you will join me. Yes, I am willing to pay a higher price for meals, rooms, and taxis, just to avoid higher mathematical acrobats in determining the proper tip for people whose business it is to give service.

How about it?

C. E. R. OF BERKELEY

DEAR C. E. R.: I'd love to join you, but how does one go about changing customs which have been built into our society for generations?

Please rush details by Western Union but I don't promise I won't tip the messenger.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter who is 17 became pregnant after going with Bryce for over a year. His parents called our daughter every name under the sun and refused to consent to the marriage although Bryce was 22 at the time.

Bryce lives at home and works for his father. He telephones our daughter from the drug store every day and comes over several evenings during the week. He always parks his car about six blocks from our house because he doesn't want his folks to know he is here. We feel these two should be married but Bryce is so afraid of his folks he can't see straight.

Please tell us what we can do to get this boy to give our grandchild a name.

—HER PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: A 22-year-old is no "boy" and he doesn't need parental consent to get married.

Your daughter is a fool to allow him to court her under the circumstances. Bryce should be told that unless he wants to accept the responsibilities of a husband and father he is not welcome in the house. And I urge her to do so before she finds herself with two "nameless" children on her hands. In the meantime you ought to get a lawyer to talk to Bryce about his legal obligations to support his child.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We live in a duplex. The downstairs neighbors keep oddball hours. The man works from 4:00 P.M. until midnight.

We have a 9-month-old daughter who makes a lot of laundry. My washing machine is in the kitchen (which is directly above their bedroom) and I run four or five loads every morning.

My husband, like most men, goes to work at 8:30 A. M. and I do my housework in the morning like most women. This man downstairs bangs on the ceiling with a broom-handle, knocks on the pipes with a wrench and sometimes he telephones in a rage.

the other day he complained because our baby cried and woke him up. "Don't you know it's Sunday?" he screamed. I told him if a 9-month-old baby knew Sunday from Wednesday she would be a genius.

Do you have any suggestions?

—MONTREAL

DEAR MONTREAL: Wear soft slippers in the morning and don't wash until 11:00 A. M. This will indicate a willingness on your part to cooperate. Perhaps he will then be less critical of the baby's crying and other noises which you cannot control.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Extra Hand Care Needed For Winter

The chairman of a table discussion at a PTA meeting I attended recently made everyone ill at ease. She kept clenching her hands. Occasionally, she would try to hide them in her lap.

It was easy to see they were neglected hands. When she talked she made awkward nervous gestures with them. Naturally, it detracted from her appearance and made it difficult for all of us to concentrate on what she was saying.

Hands are always out in the open except when you're wearing gloves. Yet, in spite of this, many women treat their hands with shocking indifference.

It's a well - known fact that if you have beautifully groomed hands you automatically become more poised and graceful. Your hands are a tipoff to your personal pride and to the way you feel about grooming in general.

Attention should especially be given to your hands during the winter months, when chapping is a common ailment. Careless women often go gloveless in cold weather, then wonder why their hands aren't satin-smooth. Make it a rule never to go out in cold or windy weather without first putting on gloves. Don't wait until you get outside your house.

Use a hand lotion or cream after each washing. Also, keep your hands covered with either every chance you get during the day in the colder months of the year. Before retiring at night, apply warm olive oil or an emollient (extra rich) cream, and wear a pair of clean cotton gloves (very inexpensive at most drug or cosmetic counters) when you sleep.

ARE YOU MAKING THE ANTACID MISTAKE?

Important News for Every

INDIGESTION AND GAS SUFFERER!

Now, for the first time you can help prevent stomach distress before the trouble begins. Up to now, antacids have been used mostly to relieve stomach upset after suffering the pangs of distress. Now, thanks to a new formulation, called MIAZYME, you may prevent the discomforts of indigestion and intestinal gas caused by poor digestion of foods.

If you properly digest the food you eat, chances are you will not suffer stomach distress. This is because of the action of enzymes, manufactured by your body. Often these enzymes will fall below par as age increases, they may become inadequate, or, as medical science knows, today's fast, hectic living pace can create distress. Then you are apt to suffer indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, cramps and other uncomfortable forms of stomach upset.

Why risk making the antacid mistake? Just two MIAZYME tablets a day may be all it takes to help prevent the discomforts of indigestion, gas, upset stomach and may open the door to food enjoyment.

MIAZYME contains no narcotics! No habit forming drugs! No harmful side effects to cause other problems. So safe, no prescription is needed! Get MIAZYME today at your favorite drug store and break the antacid routine. Try it on a NO RISK GUARANTEE. You must be completely satisfied or your money refunded. Regular size, 98¢. Economy size, $2.25.

Local Serviceman Is Honor Guard Member

During part of the time that thousands filed by the coffin of the late President Kennedy at the White House and in the Capitol Building, a Cumberland man stood at rigid attention beside the catafalque.

He is Second Lt. E. L. Shafferman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Shafferman, 1116 Bedford Street, who was in charge of one of the Honor Guard units attending the coffin of the late President.

Lt. Shafferman, a graduate of Allegany High School, attended Frostburg State College and was graduated from the University of Maryland in June 1962 with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture. He was enrolled in the Graduate School of the university the first semester and spend six weeks at Lockbourne Air Force Base in the summer of 1962.

He is married to the former Jean Stotlemyer of Belle Grove.

Lt. Shafferman was identified during the television coverage from Washington yesterday. TV newsmen also reportedly interviewed a group of students from Cumberland who were waiting to file by the late President's coffin in the Capitol rotunda, but did not identify any of the students by name.

Policeman's Family Fund Instituted Here

While the entire county continues to reel from the great weekend shock of losing its President by assassination and of seeing, in turn, his accused slayer murdered, little has been reported about the grief of another American family involved in the Friday tragedy at Dallas, Texas.

J. D. Tippitt, 39-year-old Dallas policeman, was shot down and killed while attempting to apprehend Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy.

The Texas policeman left a widow and three minor children. Officer Tippitt's salary amounted to only $490 per month.

A well-known Cumberland businessman, deeply touched by this misfortune, announced yesterday that he is starting a fund drive for the survivors of the policeman who gave his own life while being assigned to protect that of the President.

"I am sure a heartfelt nation will want to contribute to the family of this hero," said the businessman who wishes to remain anonymous. He added that Police Chief B. F. Gaffney has agreed to act as a collection agent for the fund.

"It matters not how small the contribution is," the fund originator declared. "I am certain if a similar tragedy should have occurred in Cumberland and the incident were given great publicity, people from other parts of the nation would lend a generous hand to help the family of our fallen police officer."

It is the hope and belief of the local businessman that other cities and towns throughout the United States will want to follow Cumberland's example in this undertaking. "If so," he said, "the widow and three children of Officer Tippitt should receive a sum befitting the heroism of this Texas policeman."

The businessman, who will start the drive with a $100 contribution, says checks should be made payable to the Officer Tippitt Fund. They can be either mailed to Cumberland Police Chief B. F. Gaffney or left at Police Headquarters, Frederick and Liberty streets.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Martha Raye and her daughter Melodye blend their voices on a television show next month for the first time.

If Melodye's voice has the range of her mom's they should not need a microphone. When Martha shouts, she drowns out a hog-calling contest.

Melodye Condos is Martha's 19-year-old daughter by her marriage to Nick Condos. Miss Raye and Condos are divorced, but he is still her business manager.

The daughter came to Hollywood from New York to appear with Martha on a segment of Red Skelton's CBS-TV show. When she isn't trying to carve out a show business career, Melodye is a secretary for the William Morris theatrical agency.

Melodye says she resembles her father but has a small-scale version of her mother's famous mouth.

"At times I sound similar to Mom," she said. "And I think I've picked up her sense of humor."

Mother and daughter have worked together in summer stock productions, but Melodye doesn't intend to spend her whole career holding Mom's theatrical apron-strings.

"I don't think I have to," she said. "It's the same old story. I would rather that an audience like me for myself, not because I'm somebody's offspring. My mother is a great talent and a good mother. But I think I have enough to make it on my own. My mother feels that way."

This is an era when Hollywood's star offspring are trying their wings in show business. Some have talent, others don't.

"There are some performers who are making it on their parents' name," he said. "But they won't be our lasting stars. I feel sorry for them because they'll never know the truth, how good or bad they are. Nobody will tell them they're going on their parents' name.

"If the public doesn't think I'm good enough for them, then I'll go along with their thinking. Who else buys the tickets, other show people?"

Miss Condos has appeared on television as a singer but Red's show is expected to be one of her most important appearances.

"I've done two Garry Moore shows," she said. "On the Garry Moore Show I felt they didn't know what to do with me. I sang in the first one. And I sang in the second — 'Cotton Fields.' I'm not a 'Cotton Fields' singer.

"On Red's show I sing, dance, do a medley with Mom and a skit with Red and Mom. Now I'd like to get a dramatic shot. People don't know I can act as well as I feel I can act. I've never had a chance to show them."

If she doesn't make it in show business, what will Melodye do?

"I could be a secretary," she concluded. "Or I could go to college, get a physical education degree and teach."

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 311 When Robert E. Lee broke camp at Fredericksburg, June 3, 1863, for his second attempt to invade the North, his Army of Northern Virginia had been reorganized into three corps of infantry and six brigades of cavalry. I Corps was led by James (Pete) Longstreet; II Corps by Richard Stoddert Ewell; III Corps by Ambrose Powell Hill; the cavalry brigades by James Ewell Brown (Jeb) Stuart. The total manpower at Lee's command was around 89,000 or about 33,000 fewer men than were in Joseph Hooker's Army of the Potomac, Lee's immediate contending force.

Ewell [↓] was the replacement in III Corps' command of Thomas Jonathan (Stonewall) Jackson, who had died May 10 of pneumonia—a complication of the wounds Jackson suffered in the battle at Chancellorsville, where Lee reversed Hooker's attack at heavy cost. Ewell was not in that battle; he returned to duty May 23, ten months after his leg was shot off while he was a division commander for Jackson.

Ewell had some 20 years of service as officer in Indian campaigns and the Mexican War behind him when he resigned the Regulars in May 1861 for the Rebels. Commissioned a colonel, C.S.A., immediately, Ewell gained advancement to major general when chosen to lead the II Corps when he recovered from the wound he suffered in the preliminary at Groveton, Aug. 2, 1862, to the Second Battle of Bull Run.

Ewell had to be lifted on his horse and strapped to his saddle as his corps [composed of such men as the one at right] led the advance from Fredericksburg.

Ewell naturally was among those attacked by advocates of Lee's infallibility who sought to shift the blame for what happened July 1-3, 1863, from Lee's shoulders. It was claimed that Ewell was unable to make the transition from closely supervised division commander under Jackson to a corps commander under Lee's discretionary orders.

HFC Benefits State Colleges

Seven Maryland colleges are among 532 privately-supported co-educational and male liberal arts colleges and universities which this week are receiving checks totaling $90,500 from Household Finance Foundation, according to J. E. Paupe, manager of the Household Finance Corporation office at 12 Centre Street.

These checks range between $100 and $1000, based upon the full-time enrollment of the colleges. Since 1956, when HFC established its annual program of gifts, they have totaled $550,000. Checks are sent to all four-year accredited colleges and universities in the 47 states in which HFC operates.

Maryland colleges benefitting Columbia Union College, Johns Hopkins University, Loyola, Mt. St. Mary's, St. John's, Washington and Western Maryland colleges.

HFC is America's oldest and largest consumer finance company. It makes loans to consumers under small loan and similar laws through more than 1300 branches in over 900 cities in the United States and Canada.

Re-Elected To Post

Rev. David C. Watson, D. D., former rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, was re-elected vice president of the Hospital Council of Maryland at its annual meeting in Baltimore. William P. Chaffinch of Cambridge was re-elected president of the unit.

Gov. Barron Leads West Virginians In Mourning

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. W. W. Barron led West Virginians Monday in paying final tribute to the man many considered their friend in the White House, the late President John F. Kennedy.

Barron, who flew to Washington Saturday to join other state officials passing before the bier carrying the body of the late President, participated Monday in a memorial service held in Charleston's Municipal Auditorium.

Meditations were presented by Methodist Bishop Fred G. Holloway, Episcopal Bishop Wilburn C. Campbell and Rabbi Samuel Volkman.

Six other clergymen participated and Calvary Baptist Church choir provided the music.

Special Masses

All Catholic churches in West Virginia celebrated special Masses Monday. Numerous Protestant and Jewish congregations also scheduled special services.

In Wheeling, hundreds of mourners converged on St. Joseph's Cathedral where a special requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Bernard W. Schmitt. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Frederick J. Schwertz, chancellor of the Catholic Diocese of Wheeling, commented on the world - wide mourning which he said "evidenced the greatness of President Kennedy and the hold he had on human hearts.

"The extreme consolation is that his record is written in heaven," said Msgr. Schwertz, who acted in place of Bishop Joseph Hodges, in Rome attending the Ecumenical Council.

Memorial Holiday

City, county and state offices, and most business establishments, including banks, remained closed Monday. Also observing Monday as a memorial period were the state's coal mines, at the request of the United Mine Workers union.

Bishop Holloway, one of three speakers at Municipal Auditorium, said one of the late President's greatest assets was "his insistence on equal rights for all, irrespective of the color of his skin."

Bishop Campbell warned that "this is not the time to bathe ourselves in tears of sentimentalism." He said the past three days of mourning "ought to be an instant in which we catch our breath...before plunging headlone, heartstrong back into the thick of the battle."

Rabbi Volkman of Temple Israel said Kennedy "was a great President because he trusted in the people.

"He went to the throngs, even though he knew the risk every person in public life must take, and he took it manfully," Rabbi Volkman said.

WVU Libraries Director Begins African Visit

Dr. Robert F. Munn, director of West Virginia University Libraries, has begun a two-month tour of East Africa.

He is well known in the Tri-State area, serving as one of the two West Virginia directors of the Council of Alleghenies, an organization designed to preserve things of historic significance in the area.

Under a $3,500 grant awarded by the Rockefeller Foundation, Dr. Munn will visit publication houses and libraries in Tangayika, Kenya and Uganda, relevant to the WVU-East African agricultural education program. He plans to investigate sources of library reference in East Africa and attempt to coordinate library facilities with those of WVU. He arrived there November 18.

No Politics For Goldstein, Beall

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said Monday he would engage in no political activity until after the month-long period of mourning for the late President Kennedy.

Goldstein had scheduled a public reception for Monday at which he was expected to announce he would seek the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. The reception was canceled after Goldstein learned of the President's assassination.

After returning from the President's funeral in Arlington Cemetery Monday, Goldstein announced, "I will take no part whatsoever in political activity during the period of mourning."

Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall, who will try to retain his Senate seat next year, said, "This is no time for politics as usual. I will not even think about politics for the remainder of the year."

Child's Opinion Is Prophetic

A reader of the December Redbook magazine, just off the press, was startled by an unidentified French child's observation about an average American.

The observation was included in an article entitled "What Are Americans Like?" in which the author quoted opinions of a group of European children about Americans.

One French child had the following comment, which though obviously misinformed, turned out to be almost prophetic about last Friday's tragic assassination of President John F. Kennedy. It read as follows:

"The average American is of course a Texan. He eats lots of breakfast and gets fat so he has to go on a diet because he likes to look skinny. He calls everybody 'sweetheart' and is bad to colored people. If he doesn't like who is his President he usually shoots him. . ."

Apple-Plum Dumplings Please Dad

When dad takes his fork to this flaky, tender pastry he'll discover it contains a spicy apple stuffed with purple plums. The dumplings have been baked with a special plum sauce. They're served with sweetened whipped cream for the perfect finale for any dinner.

Aren't there days when you just feel like baking something special for dinner? Here's a dessert that's destined to win praise for your efforts — Apple - Plum Dumplings.

Enclosed within flaky, tender squares of pastry you'll discover apples stuffed with purple plums. The dumplings are baked with a spicy cinnamon sauce. Serve with puffs of whipped cream, this is a dessert to remember.

The pastry for our dumplings is the same as for a pie. Here's a tip. To assure your pastry being tender and flaky you'll want to use lard as the shortening agent. Even when taken straight from the refrigerator, it is easily blended with the dry ingredients.

Here's how to prepare the Apple-Plum Dumplings.

Apple-Plum Dumplings

2¼ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup lard
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water
1 jar (1 pound, 1 ounce) purple plums in sirup
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 medium cooking apples
⅛ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Sift together flour and teaspoon salt. Cut lard into four mixture with fork or pastry blender until crumbs are about the size of small peas. Add water, a small amount at a time, mixing quickly and evenly until dough just holds in a ball.

Drain plums and save sirup. Add enough water to make 1½ cups. Mix ½ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Add lemon juice, 2, tablespoons butter or margarine and sugar mixture to plum juice.

Cook slowly, stirring occassionally, for 3 minutes. Roll pastry into a rectangle approximately 14x21 inches. Cut into six 7-inch squares. Remove pits from plums. Pare and core apples. Place an apple in the center of each square of pastry. Fill center of apples with plums.

Combine ⅛ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Sprinkle over plums and apples and dot with butter or margarine. Fold corners of pastry to center up over each apple. Moisten corners, if necessary, and pinch together. Place dumplings in 19x13-inch cake pan. Pour hot plum sauce over dumplings. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 40 to 45 minutes or until pastry is browned. Serve topped with a plum if desired. 6 servings.

Quick Chocolate Soda

3 heaping teaspoons quick chocolate flavored mix
¼ cup milk
Ice cream
Carbonated water

Combine chocolate mix and milk in a tall glass. Stir briskly to blend. Add a scoop of ice cream and fill slowly with chilled carbonated water. Makes 1 serving.

Sugar Cookies

2¾ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter (1½ sticks)
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 tablespoon grated orange rind or 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter; add sugar and cream well. Add eggs, grated orange rind or vanilla; beat until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Chill several hours or overnight. Roll to ⅛-inch thickness on lightly floured board or canvas. Cut with floured 2 to 3-inch cookie cutters. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Sprinkle with granulated sugar. Bake in a hot oven, 400°, 6 to 8 minutes or until delicately browned. Cool on rack. Decorate with butter frosting and candied fruits, if desired. Make 4 to 5 dozen cookies.

Try having that pie filling warm when you add meringue and bake immediately. Some good cooks say this method reduces leakage. Be sure to use two tablespoons of sugar for each egg white for the meringue because less than that amount may make the meringue less tender than it should be and on the tough side.

Chippy's Eggs In Haystacks

Deviled Shrimp Mixture

1 8oz. can Shrimp, drained and minced
2 tbsp. mayonnaise
1 tbsp. chives, chopped
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Haystack Ingredients

6 eggs
2 c. finely crushed potato chips
6 eggs (for haystack centers)
½ c. grated American cheese
Salt and pepper

Haystack Sauce

⅓ c. butter
⅓ c. mayonnaise
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1 tbsp. minced chives

Prepare Deviled Shrimp Mixture, by mixing minced shrimp, mayonnaise, chives, salt and pepper together until well blended. Set aside. Prepare "Haystacks." Separate 6 eggs. Season whites of eggs lightly with salt and pepper, and beat until stiff enough to form sharp peaks. Into this mixture fold lightly beaten egg yolks, crushed potato chips, mix gently. Heap this mixture into six buttered, individual casseroles, making a hollow in center of each. Slip 1 whole egg into each hollow; then drop 2 tbsp. of shrimp mixture gently onto whole egg. Sprinkle the center of each casserole with 1 heaping tablespoon of grated American cheese. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Bake in moderate oven 350°, until eggs are set (about 22 to 25 minutes), and serve piping hot with Haystack Sauce.

Haystack Sauce: gently heat butter, mayonnaise, mustard and chives in small saucepan over low heat, until sauce is well blended and butter is melted.

Saucy Cranberry Chicken

1 broiler-fryer chicken (2½ pounds), cut in serving pieces
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon thyme
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup butter or margarine
4 scallions, chopped
¼ pound mushrooms, chopped, or 1 can (3 or 4 ounces) chopped mushrooms
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup cranberry juice cocktail
¾ teaspoon soy sauce
2 medium tomatoes, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Combine flour, salt, paprika, thyme and pepper in paper bag. Add chicken pieces two or three at a time and shake until coated. Heat butter in skillet; add chicken and cook until golden on all sides. Add scallions, mushrooms, sugar, salt, cranberry juice, soy sauce, and tomatoes. Cover and cook slowly on top of range or in slow oven (325°F.) 35 to 45 minutes or until fork tender. Remove to serving platter, pour sauce over, and sprinkle with parsley.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Luscious eating: Thick red slices of tomatoes brushed with French dressing for 15 minutes . . . particularly good served with broiled meats.

For extra flavor for rice served as a vegetable: Simply toss hot rice lightly with French dressing to taste, and sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

'Shelled' Fruit Cake Is Neat Treat

CANDIED ORANGE SHELLS filled with fruit cake makes a bright, festive gift.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Neatest trick of the season: bake fruit cake in orange shells for gift giving and party serving. Sliced crosswise, each attractive round will have a portion of sweet cake and tangy candied peel.

These fruit cakes take a little doing, but the making is spread over a couple of days. The orange shells are prepared one day and left in a syrup overnight; the next day they're filled with the fruit cake batter and baked.

The fruit cake conceits store well, so make them ahead. We tasted some (tightly wrapped) that had been left at room temperature for more than a month and they were delicious.

FRUIT CAKES IN CANDIED ORANGE SHELLS

1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
Dash of cardamon
½ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
4 eggs
1½ cups raisins
1 cup (8 ounces) mixed candied fruit
½ cup chopped walnuts
Candied Orange Shells and Orange Syrup
2 tablespoons sherry or port
Sugar

Sift together the flour, salt, cloves, nutmeg, and cardamon. Cream butter and brown sugar; beat in the eggs, thoroughly, one at a time. Stir in the sifted dry ingredients, then raisins, candied fruit and chopped walnuts. Spoon into Candied Orange Shells. Place in a baking pan. Brush with Orange Syrup. Bake in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 50 to 70 minutes. Cool. Prick top of cake with a fork; dribble sherry or port over cake. Cover with Candied Orange tops. Store in a container with a tight fitting cover in a cool, dry place for several days. Roll in sugar. Wrap tightly in plastic transparent wrap and decorate packages. Slice horizontally to serve. Makes 6 large or 9 small cakes.

CANDIED ORANGE SHELLS AND ORANGE SYRUP

6 large or 9 small oranges
Water
Salt
3 cups sugar
¾ cup light corn syrup
1 cup water

Cut a slice from the top of each orange; scoop out pulp; use pulp some other way. Place orange shells and tops in large kettle. Add 3 quarts water and 1 tablespoon salt. Bring to boil, then simmer 5 minutes. Drain and repeat using 3 quarts fresh water and 1 tablespoon salt. Drain. Scoop loose pulp from shells. Mix together the sugar, corn syrup and 1 cup water in sauce-pan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook without stirring to 240 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from water. Add orange shells and tops. Cook 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool slightly. Put shells and tops into shallow dish. Cover with syrup and let stand about 4 hours, turning occasionally. Remove shells and invert on small juice glasses to drain overnight. Let tops drain on wax paper. Reserve syrup. Use shells, tops and syrup as directed in recipe for Fruit Cakes in Candied Orange Shells.

Almond Apple Sauce Bread

Cut elegantly thin or sturdily thick . . . served with sausage patties or plain buttered . . . this Almond Sauce Bread conveys pleasure, and gives solid satisfaction to the inner man.

The brown loaf emerges from the oven breathing of apples because there's canned apple sauce in the batter. The apple sauce also helps insure freshness that lasts for days. Cooled, it knifes down in compact slices thick with ground nuts. Each bite tastes of apples, of almonds, and of the honest goodness of the bread itself.

For a Sunday brunch you might slice it thin and serve with tiny hot savory sausage patties, along with mixed frozen fruits and sour cream. It's an imaginative and most delicious combination of flavors and foods that will delight . . . a real "conversation piece".

For youngsters after school, thick slab slices of the loaf are called for, spread generously with butter or cottage cheese or jam.

And for sandwiches to travel to work or to school, this loaf takes with enthusiasm to all manner of fillings, holds them neatly, adding the bonus of its own applenut flavor.

Why not make two loaves . . . one to serve now, the other to pop into the freezer to enjoy later.

Almond Apple Sauce Bread

2 cups flour
¾ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cardamon
1 can (5-ounces) diced toasted almonds
1 egg, beaten
1 cup canned apple sauce
3 tablespoons melted shortening

Combine and sift dry ingredients; measure and reserve 3 tablespoons almonds, stir remainder into flour mixture. Combine egg and apple sauce; stir in melted shortening. Combine the 2 mixtures and stir together until blended. (Do not overmix or try to beat smooth.) Pour batter into a greased 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan, or into 2 greased 7¾" x 4¼" x 2¼" loaf pans. Sprinkle reserved almonds over batter. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, 1 hour or until done. Makes 1 or 2 loaves.

Tasty Toast Fingers: Toast bread on one side under broiler. Turn and spread untoasted side with Italian dressing. Then toast that side until it's brown. Cut into fingers and serve with soup or salad. Or spread with cream cheese for an appetizer.

Bake A Fruit Pie With A Past

FRESH CRANBERRIES AND APPLES make a tangy team when they're baked in a pie.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

SLEUTHING THROUGH early American cook books, we've come on a two-fruit combination—cranberries and apples—that's still relished by knowing cooks.

An excellent way to team the fruits is in a sauce; another interesting way is to bake them in a pie. Sometimes modern cooks use a larger amount of apple than cranberries, somtimes it's just the other way around. This pie takes the latter way.

Eaters who like a tangy pie will enjoy this one ungarmished; for diners with a sweet tooth, add a topping of well sweetened whipped cream.

MORE CRANBERRY THAN APPLE PIE

Flaky pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie
1-½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons quick - cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
2-½ cups fresh cranberries
1-½ cups diced pared apple
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
3 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Roll out half of pastry about ⅛-inch thick; line a 9-inch pie plate with it. Roll out other half of pastry about ⅛-inch thick for top and cut vents in it.

Stir together well the sugar, tapioca and salt; mix in the cranberries, apple, grated orange rind and water. Turn into the pastry-lined pie plate; dot with butter. Cover with top pastry; trim, turn under and flute edge.

Bake in a very hot (450° degrees) oven 10 to 15 minutes. Continue baking in moderate (350 degrees) oven about 50 minutes.

For that Sunday dinner, when company is expected, serve a first course of a fruit cup topped with a small ball of fruit shebet. Frozen melon balls are delicious with organe or lemon sherbets, orange and grapefruit with raspberry sherbet.

Young Broccoli Spears Served In Butter Sauce

Place two 10-oz. packages young broccoli spears frozen in butter sauce in cooking pouches in enough boiling water to cover. Bring to a second boil. Cook 16 minutes, turning several times to insure complete cooking. Do not cover pan. Remove flavor-tight cooking pouches by grasping extra-long top flaps. Open and serve. Yield: 6 servings.

Slipcovers can be machine-dried on a "regular setting," but remove them while still damp and replace on chair or divan to finish drying. Zippers and other fastenings should be closed during both washing and drying.

A piece of old terry towel is good for cleaning a felt hat.

African Appetizer

1 package (9 ounces) frozen lobster tails (about 3 small tails)
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped celery
1 banana

Cook lobster according to package directions. Let cool. Remove meat from shell; chop and then chill. When lobster is thoroughly chilled, combine mayonnaise, milk and lemon juice; add curry powder, Tabasco and salt. Toss with lobster and celery. Just before serving, slice banana and gently stir into lobster curry. Serve on lettuce.

Soggy biscuits are the result of too much liquid, too little fat or baking at too low an oven temperature, food specialists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture say.

Communist Travel Ban Confusing

There has been widespread insistence that Washington be more vigilant in protecting defense installations from the spying eyes of communists. But it is interesting to note the bumbling manner in which new regulations have been imposed on communist bloc nationals. It sometimes seems as if Washington has no stomach for some of the things it feels compelled to do.

Under the revised rules, diplomatic representatives of East European countries are barred from 11 per cent of the U. S., specified by county. The reason given by the Pentagon is that these satellite representatives snoop in places where Soviet agents are prohibited. This discovery is on a par with the hilarious statement by Eisenhower that no one could have known before 1961 that Castro was a communist.

But to get back to the Pentagon, why the differentiation? Why 11 per cent barred to bloc representatives and 26 per cent to Soviet aides? In New Jersey, hard by New York City, for example, seven counties are out of bounds for satellite diplomats, whereas Soviet emissaries are barred from 19.

To further contribute to the confusion, resident newspapermen and tourists from the East European satellites are not covered by the new restrictions. Thus, any East European carrying a press card or guidebook is free to roam.

Fluorides And Liberal Bores

No matter where you go in the U.S., you can hardly pick up a paper without reading about an intensive battle over the question of putting fluorides in the public water supply. The liberals, who want to use a police stick to compel children to have healthy teeth, are for it; the conservatives, who think it is the parents' duty to look after their offspring, are against it. Both sides strive mightily to quote scientific opinion—or, rather, the opinion of scientists—to prove they are right about what fluoridated water will or will not do to one's arteries or gizzard.

As a philosophical libertarian who thinks the State's role in medicine should be limited to the prevention of contagious disease, I would tend to argue the conservative side of the case. This business of forcing positive dental medication on people whether they want it or not is uncomfortably close to the compulsory dosing of people with vitamins or codliver oil. I don't want to be told by politicians, or by majority vote, what I must drink or eat no matter what wonderful things it might do for my health. Freedom is worth a few dental caries.

On the other hand, I can't for the life of me see why either the liberals or the conservatives make such a big production of this fluoridation quarrel. I can't follow the conservatives when they argue that minute applications of fluorides will deform the bones or cause hypertrophy of the liver; after all, many people who get fluorides in their natural water supply have lived long and useful lives. In default of real proof that fluoridated water can shrivel the intestines the conservatives had better press the philosophical side of their argument. If they argue that the state must be prevented from fluoridating the water supply because it might corrode the kidneys, they are giving their case away if, by any chance, it can be proved that the kidneys are unharmed by the stuff. The good believer in freedom would have to be against compulsory fluoridation even if it were proved that it could add ten years to one's life.

As for the liberals, I can't see why they are so nosy on the subject of forcing people to prevent tooth decay when there are so many other things of far greater importance to be nosy about. If the liberals want to do something about the water supply they might better turn their attention to the widespread pollution of streams throughout the United States. When I was growing up on the Connecticut shore, I could gather oysters from the beach after a storm and eat them, raw if I liked, without worrying about bacterial pollution from sewage flowing out of the rivers.

I used to swim in a lake that is now condemned because of industrial wastes. I have spent dismal days in certain cities on the Great Lakes drinking water that is so heavily chlorinated that it makes one gag. New York City is one of the few places where one can get decent water.

Instead of fighting to put fluorides into city water, the liberals ought to be spending their time trying to get bacteria and the apparently inevitable chlorine out of the water. After all, the old common law as it was applied to running streams stipulated that one might use the water provided one did not substantially change either the volume or the quality of its flow. But the law is mostly a dead letter. Paper mills and chemical factories now flout the law with impunity. As for supposedly law-abiding city governments, they frequently refuse to treat the sewage which they permit to be emptied into rivers, lakes and coastal waters.

With this sort of lawlessness taking both the taste and the safety out of the water supply, how can a good liberal spend his time on a marginal fight to put a little fluorine into the reservoirs? Where is the liberal's sense of proportion?

Fluorides, smuorides, the whole fight is a great bore. But I am heartily sick of having to drink chlorine when I visit Ohio. And I don't like to think of swallowing detergents when I ask for some simple $H_2O$ in Miami.

Even Nikita Khrushchev Will Miss Assassinated President Kennedy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—A lot of people wept as the last remains of John F. Kennedy moved to its final resting place. A lot of people will miss him in the days and months to come . . . most of all his family will miss him. It was just short of three years ago on a wintry day in January that a young, new president and his beautiful wife moved up Pennsylvania Avenue over the packed snow. Some said the new first lady did not smile, stared straight ahead. If she was nervous and aloof then, she became a smiling first lady, a much loved first lady as the years passed, and of such great strength to her husband at the tragic end. Two deaths in one family in six months is a lot to bear, and her loss is hard for the rest of us to realize . . . . and Caroline, who held her father's hand with such trust and adoration when they went to see her mother after the death of baby Patrick will miss John F. Kennedy. She won't realize at first how much she'll miss him. She won't be able to give press interviews at the White House anymore, or watch royal dignitaries arrive by helicopter or listen to the bag pipes of the Black Watch or gallup her pony over the White House lawn . . . . and three-year-old John-John who was just beginning to explore the mysteries of that fascinating house in which he lived, won't be able to play under his father's desk or go with him to see the soldiers at Arlington Cemetery or see him off at the airplanes any more. This is a period when a boy needs a friend, and John-John's best friend won't be around to play with him any more.

Even The Critics Mourn

A lot of other people, all over the nation and all over the world will miss John F. Kennedy, even including some of his critics and some of those who were meanest to him when alive. Sen. Everett Dirksen, the Republican leader, who was not too much of a critic, will miss him. Despite political differences, the two men had respect for each other, enjoyed the give and take of political banter together . . . . and Adlai Stevenson will miss him. Despite all the rumors about differences, the two were close friends. At the time of the Cuban crisis, JFK insisted that Adlai send to New York for his clothes and remain his guest in the White House . . . . and the new prime minister of England as well as Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada, and almost every member of the diplomatic corps, including one of the newest members, Lyubomir Popov, will miss John Kennedy. Popvo, a Socialist, came out of his formal meeting with the President enthused over his warm and charm and sincerity as did all diplomats who knew him.

Strange as it may seem, Nikita Khrushchev will also miss President Kennedy. Khrushchev once told me: "Kennedy is a man you can disagree with but still respect." I am sure he had a very deep respect for JFK. When Kennedy was elected Khrushchev sent him a glowing, enthusiastic cable of congratulations, had even wanted to send a cabinet member as special ambassador for the inauguration . . . . Khrushchev once told me how the U. S. ambassador Tommy Thompson had come to see him in October, 1960, during the election campaign and wanted him to release the American RB 47 fliers. "I replied, 'no, that would only help Nixon and we're voting for Kennedy.' And since Kennedy was elected by a very narrow margin we figure we elected him." . . . so Nikita Khrushchev despite his hurly-burly diplomacy, will miss John F. Kennedy.

Man In A Wheel Chair

But the man who will be most crushed by the death of John F. Kennedy will be a man in a wheel chair who at first did not know of his son's death . . . . Joseph P. Kennedy had worked and dreamed, schemed and plotted, contributed and organized to make one of his sons President of the United States . . . . he had received crushing setbacks. The worst was the death of his oldest son, the apple of his eye, Joseph Patrick, Jr. . . . I first met old Joe when he came to Washington as FDR's chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. He was a brash, charming, intelligent Irishman, a Wall Street speculator who turned the tables on Wall Street and cleaned it up. His nine children occupied a big house with gold bathroom fixtures on the Potomac River. Some were away at school. But wherever they were Joe Kennedy devoted his time to impressing on them the importance of public service. They must work for their country. . . .

When Joe, Jr., was shot down by a Nazi pursuit plane off the coast of Portugal during the war, Joe, Sr., concentrated on the next son, Jack. And it was his father's determination, his money, his dedication, that helped elect the first Catholic in history President of the United States. Old Joe even went to Los Angeles to help mastermind the fight at the Democratic Convention. Because of the critics, he stayed carefully in the background, but he was there . . . . of all the close-knit Kennedy clan, the brothers, the sisters who worshipped Jack, none will miss him more than the old man who sits in a wheel chair paralyzed, unable to speak. What he will think will take him back over the years to the pleasures and the triumphs and now the tragic end.

Kennedy Was Ideally Formed To Lead Nation

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

Of all the men in public life in his time, John Fitzgerald Kennedy was the most ideally formed to lead the United States of America.

Such, at any rate, is this reporter's judgment, perhaps biased, but at any rate based on long experience and close observation, and no longer possible to suspect as self-serving. To be sure, judging Kennedy was never easy, for he was no common man, to be judged by common standards.

Courage, intelligence, and practicality; a passion for excellence and a longing to excell; above all, a deep love of this country, a burning pride in its past, and unremitting confidence in the American future — these were the qualities which acted, so to say, as the mainsprings of Kennedy the President.

Kennedy the man, Kennedy the private face, was half the enemy and half the reinforcement of Kennedy the President. He had an enviable grace of manner and person. He enjoyed pleasure. After Theodore Roosevelt, he was the first American President to care for learning for its own sake. After Abraham Lincoln, he was the first American President with a rich vein of personal humor — which is a very different thing from the capacity to make jokes.

This strange, dry, detached, self-mocking humor no doubt aided him to assess men and events; but in his public role, it was a handicap. Certainly it was not the same sort of handicap as Lincoln's humor, which actually prevented great numbers of otherwise intelligent persons from taking Lincoln seriously.

Kennedy's humor instead inhibited him from showing the depth of his feelings. Any public exhibition of emotion gave him gooseflesh. So foolish people said he was a cold, unfeeling man, although few men in our time have had stronger feelings about those things that mattered to him.

After his country, what mattered most to him was to live intensely, with purpose and effect. He was in some sense the ultimate personification of the observation of Justice Holmes: "Man is born to act; to act is to affirm the worth of an end; and to affirm the worth of an end is to create an ideal."

The ideal that Kennedy affirmed in action was singularly simple: for no man was ever more contemptuous of the theological complexities of ideology. (It was hard to know, indeed, whether he held a more sovereign contempt for the doctrinaire mushiness of the extreme American Left or for the doctrinaire hate-preachings of the extreme American Right. He was slow to anger, but these made his gorge rise.)

His ideal could be completely summed up in only a score or so of words — a nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal; the proud stronghold of a new birth of freedom; and the standing promise to all men that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth. The noble, ancient phrases, the pieced-together tags from the finest of all American utterances, are as well-worn by now as antique coins, whose legend is illegible. But he could read the legend still. He still took this definition of our nation's purpose with perfect literalness and this was the ideal that his actions sought to affirm.

Whereas Franklin Delano Roosevelt took office when the nation was clamoring for leadership and crying out to be shown a new course, John Fitzgerald Kennedy took office in a time of violent, yet hardly comprehensible, change. Too many, then as now, confronted the vast revolutionary processes of our time either with fatty complacency or with shrill, embittered indignation. His task was therefore a hard task, and he was untimely cut off before his task could be half done.

Yet if we look at our country and the world in which we live—if we honestly compare the prospects now opening before us with the prospects as they seemed when Kennedy's Presidency began —we can see that there has been a new birth of hope.

It is perhaps pardonable, at this moment, to be personal. Speaking for myself, I have not dared to hope as I do now since those first months of the Korean War, when such overly high hopes were born from the strong sense that America was grandly accomplishing a high, historic service. That service had its heavy price. I still remember watching the Wolfhound Regiment through a long, hard fight, and how the bodies of the fallen were carried in when the fight was won, and how I suddenly could think only of Simonides' epitaph that was inscribed, for all to read, on the tomb of the dead Spartans at Thermopylae:

Go, stranger, and in Lacadaemon tell
That here obedient to the laws we fell.

The President who is lost to us, like those men who were lost so many years ago, was no drilled, unthinking Spartiate. He was the worthy citizen of a nation great and free — a nation, as he liked to think, that is great because it is free and this was the thought that always inspired his too brief leadership of this republic.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON — The Bobby Baker affair is supplying cynical Washington with a lot of humor and wise innuendo, but its potential for damage to government is real and serious.

Baker was the secretary of the Senate majority, a position of some prestige and influence, but one that through the years has become identified as that of a glorified messenger boy for the Senate powers.

Because of Baker's close connections with some senators there is a pervasive feeling in Washington that any wrongdoings are, in fact, the transgressions of senators—that in at least a part of the unfolding picture of Baker's personal and business affairs, he was acting as "front man" for someone else.

It is this factor that arouses the greatest concern among senators who have long sought a way to elevate the level of conduct of all legislators. Baker alone can be dispensed with quickly, but Baker as a man whose business and personal affairs are inextricably interwoven with those of a number of senators is quite another matter.

Because of the inherent threat to some senators, there have been numerous expressions that the committee charged with the inquiry will make an effort to sweep the whole mess under the rug. Perhaps they will try, but the affair seems to have developed too much momentum for that.

It is true that the constantly recurring reports of scandals in Washington over the past 10 to 15 years has left the public somewhat jaded. The current reports are bringing nowhere near the reaction engendered by the mink coat and five per cent probes of the closing period of the Truman administration.

This is regrettable of itself, for if the federal government is to hold the respect of the voters, it must keep itself above reproach, and the only practical way to do that is to have a vigilant public ready to vote the rascals out.

A Star Is Born

By John Crosby

LONDON.

They review politicians like actors here. A Member of Parliament will say a few words in the House of Commons and the next day he opens his Daily Telegraph with great trepidation to read his notices.

"Mr. Boyd Carpenter can be a bit pompous. His debating points, unlike Beerbohm-Tree's Hamlet, are sometimes vulgar without being funny," Colin Welch wrote of an MP in the Telegraph the other day.

It isn't what the politicos say. It's how they say it, how quick or slow they are with a riposte and never mind how good the riposte is.

Colin Welch, I should say, is the toughest critic in the business and it's not easy to get a good notice out of him. Just the other day, though, he gave a rave to Selwyn Lloyd, who had been getting pretty bad notices. His first night notice of Mr. Lloyd, the new leader of the House, opened:

"Suddenly the night took fire. Mr. Lloyd was quietly preening himself on the fact that expenditure on education had risen when he, as Chancellor, was trying to stop it.

"That's why you were sacked," bawled a number of irreverent progressives. This sort of repartee has in the past sometimes reduced Mr. Lloyd to stumbling incoherence. But not tonight.

" 'Whatever may have happened then,' he cried, 'I'm back again now.'

"This simple but extremely effective riposte was greeted with a tremendous roar. In this noise was expressed not only joy and mirth, but also the affectionage regard by the whole House for this transparently decent, likable, and loyal man."

If you knew Colin Welch, you'd realize what a rave that is. His review of the Labor party's stand on washing machines — Labor is rather puritan about all the visible signs of affluence — was quoted in all the best clubs the next day with snorts of mirth. Welch can destroy an MP with a quip.

These days we aficionados have rushed to the papers every day to see what kind of notices the new Prime Minister would get in his battle of wits with his brilliant Labor opposite number, Harold Wilson, and Sir Alec has done very well. Just the other day the Telegraph said: "Sir Alec Douglas-Home has not yet approached Mr. Macmillan's subtlety in the Commons, but in yesterday's round with Mr. Wilson he achieved something his predecessor has not managed for a long time — his supporters totally outshouted the opposition.

"The Prime Minister is aided by Mr. Wilson's present overconfidence, which touches the point of euphoria. His guard is so open that even a signalled punch finds the mark."

Well, of course, there we are getting into sports parlance and there is a lot of that, too. It's a contest. It's cricket. It's football. It's everything but a discussion of governmental policies.

This from the Times of London: "This was not the Mr. Lloyd the House remembered, not the gloomy Cassandra of the pay pause, or the sad forgotten figure on the third row beneath the gangway. Here was a jaunty cavalier of a party politician, oozing confidence from every pore, his veins shot through with adrenalin. He made the best electioneering speech. It may not have been highly relevant to the matter in hand, but it had so much entertainment value that Mr. Gallaghan would no doubt like to put a tax on such a performance."

There you have it. Never mind the content. What a performance! It reminds me of the time when a then unknown Jimmy Walker was running for Mayor of New York. One wardheeler asked another, "This Walker — what kind of Mayor will he make?" "Oh, he'll be a lousy Mayor — but what a candidate! What a candidate!"

The entertainment value is what counts. You might say this is putting the emphasis on the trivial but the British press may just be recognizing the facts of life.

This is the age of personality in television and the comedians are way out front — at least over here. If you can get a laugh, you're a tough opponent. "From that moment" (that "I'm back now" crack) the House was on his side," said the Times man. "Did the opposition accuse them of overspending? It was like Messalina lecturing on morality or Micawber on thrift. The benches behind him went beserk with joy."

Rehabilitation Is Possible In Emphysema

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

The number of deaths from emphysema has increased markedly in this country, rising from 915 in 1949 to 10,269 in 1961. In addition, a chronic lung disease is responsible for one out of every 14 workers (12,380) receiving social security benefits due to total and permanent disability. These men and women are part of the more than 1 million Americans who suffer from chronic bronchitis.

In emphysema, the fine air sacs of the lungs become over-stretched and act like an old rubber band. The sufferer is short of breath because the sacs are filled with stagnant air, which takes up most of the available space so that fresh air cannot enter. The walls of the sacs become so inelastic, dead air cannot be expelled. Expiration is so ineffective, the majority cannot blow out a lighted match held 4 inches from the mouth. This test is done after taking a deep breath and blowing with the mouth open.

Cough is another symptom because the majority are smokers. The condition is aggravated by fresh colds that settle in the lungs and resist treatment.

Management of emphysema consists mainly of bronchodilators, detergents, expectorants, and broad spectrum antibiotics (when infection co-exists). Intermittent positive-pressure breathing is a hospital procedure that helps areate the lungs.

Walking while inhaling oxygen from a portable tank also improves breathing. The trick is to utilize every muscle near the chest, including those of the abdomen, to squeeze out stagnant air.

Persons with emphysema must accept the disability and do everything possible to prevent further damage. Rehabilitation is possible but they must do their part. This means avoiding smoke and other types of air pollution, machine dust, strenuous labor, and inclement weather. Younger victims ought to find work in keeping with their diminished physical capacity. The condition cripples unless the individual takes a positive and optimistic approach to the problem.

SEPARATED RETINA

J. V. writes: Does a retinal detachment cause blindness in the involved eye?

REPLY

Varying degrees of blindness, depending upon the extent of the detachment. In this condition, the retina peels away from the inside of the orbit. The tear may be small, creating only a tiny blind area, or it may be so extensive total blindness of that eye results.

DIFFERENT POCKETS

M. P. writes: Are gas pockets the same as the pockets in diverticulosis?

REPLY

No. Gas accumulates in various parts of the colon, usually between segments that are contracted. Diverticulas are pockets that blossom out from the wall of the colon.

SWOLLEN HAND

R. B. writes: Is there a medicine to dissolve the swelling in hand joints due to arthritis?

REPLY

One of the corticosteroids might do this, especially if swelling is in the center joint and the cause is rheumatoid arthritis. These steroids seldom are necessary when the joints next to the nail are involved.

TOMORROW: Painful shoulder.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

A famous producer bought a ranch that he proposed to use as a haven to get away from it all. His wife, however, had different ideas and invited everybody she met to come down for a weekend. The producer walked in on one typical brouhaha and heard his wife bemoaning the fact that she had not yet come up with an appropriate name for the ranch. He looked over the assemblage of guests with considerable distaste and announced, "I've got it. 'Bar None'."

It was reported that one very superior British novelist visited the ranch another time and was asked to write something in the guest book. She scrawled, "Quoth the raven," signed her name—and departed.

Variety tells about a cocky young singer who has an opinion on everything, and doesn't mind expressing it. "Which kind of music do you prefer? Bach or bebop?" he was asked on a TV show. Halliday answered promptly, "It's all the same thing, friend: it's all music."

One of our most popular advice-to-the-troubled columnist was stumped when she opened this letter recently: "Dear Lady: I joined the Navy to see the world. I've seen it. Now, how do I get out?"

Friends will be received at the funeral home from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. today.

Authorities said Nealis sustained the wound when he stumbled while carrying a .12 gauge shotgun down steps into the yard of his home.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell of Romney, acting coroner, ruled the death accidental.

The victim was a son of Mrs. Lulu D. (Smith) Nealis, Augusta, and the late Charles C. Nealis. He was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving, besides his mother, are four brothers, Arlie Nealis, Pontiac, Mich.; Kenneth Nealis, at home; Garland Nealis, Edison, N. J., and Lelbon Nealis, Pawtucket, R. FROSTBURG — Lieutenant William B. Wood, commanding officer of Company A, 115th Armor, Maryland National Guard, announces two promotions in the company.

Sgt. E6 James A. McDonald, a member of the company for 10 years, was promoted to Sergeant E7 and has taken charge of the first platoon.

John C. Wampler, Sp4, has been promoted to Sergeant E5 and has assumed duties as a tank commander. He joined the company in 1960, spent six months at Fort Knox, Ky., where he received armored training.

He has been a tank driver and gunner on an M48 medium tank, according to Lieutenant Wood, who said he recently was awarded second place trophy in the firing of his service pistol at Fort George G. Meade. He and his wife and children reside in Vale Summit.

Sergeant McDonald has served as wheel vehicle mechanic, tank driver and commander and will take over duties as platoon sergeant.

An avid rifle and pistol shooter he placed in many competitive matches with the 29th Infantry Division. Last year he placed second highest in the Governor of Maryland matches at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

He won the Company A pistol trophy this year with a score of 374 out of a possible 400 on the 45 calibre service pistol combat course. He and his wife and family live on Spring Street.

Franklin Man Dies Following Auto Accident

Robert L. Simmons Traffic Victim

FRANKLIN, W. Va.—A 45-year-old local man died Saturday in Rockingham Memorial Hospital, Harrisonburg, Va., about 17 hours after he suffered fatal injuries in a Pendleton County highway accident.

Robert L. Simmons, who died in the hospital shortly before noon Saturday, was the driver of a truck in which two of three passengers, reported as his wife and sister, were seriously injured.

Reported in serious condition at the hospital today were Mrs. Tressie Simmons, the victim's former wife, and Mrs. Carrie Simmons, 42, his sister. Another passenger, Jerry Simmons, about 3, the victim's nephew, was apparently uninjured.

Mr. Simmons is reported to have told Cpl. W. H. Huff, investigating officer, that while he was operating his truck around a sharp curve on County Route 21, about five miles south of Brandywine, the young boy diverted his attention and the truck plunged over an embankment.

Mrs. Tressie Simmons, according to the hospital, sustained severe back and neck injuries, and Mrs. Carrie Simmons suffered a fractured pelvis.

They were admitted to the hospital at 7 p. m. Friday.

Services were held Monday for Mr. Simmons at Thorn Chapel Church, with Rev. Lawrence Frye officiating, and interment was in Johnstown Cemetery, near Franklin.

The victim, a native of Franklin, was a son of Mrs. Elva Gertrude Simmons of Franklin and the late William Early Simmons.

Also surviving are three daughters, Patsy, Carolyn and Linda Simmons, and a son Roger Simmons, all at home; and three brothers, Lloyd Simmons, Franklin, and Calvin and Herbert Simmons, both of Chantilly, Va.

Mountain City Stores Observe JFK Funeral

FROSTBURG—Frostburg stores and business houses closed Monday until 3 p.m. in observance of President John F. Kennedy's funeral. During the services streets were deserted with fewer people and cars seen than at any one time for years.

All organizations and groups had cancelled activities since the assassination Friday.

The only activity Monday morning was the special observances held in various churches.

As in other parts of the country residents were stunned. Almost everytime two or more persons gathered together the question was heard "How could such a thing happen in our country?"

Activity was resumed at 3 p.m. when stores reopened and remained open until 9 p.m.

Hunting Within City Limits Is Termed Illegal

FROSTBURG—Donald Griffith, chief of police, has announced that numerous complaints have been received by the City Police in regards to hunting within the city limits since rabbit season started November 15.

A general ordinance of the City of Frostburg prohibits the discharge of firearms within the city limits of Frostburg at any time.

Article 66C, section 135 (M) of Criminal Laws of Maryland (Game Laws) also prohibits the discharging of firearms within one hundred yards (300 feet) of any residence.

Chief Griffith said that any violators apprehended violating the city ordinance will face arrest on two counts, city and state, and will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Many W. Va. Newspapers Laud President Kennedy

By United Press International

The grief of West Virginians over the death of President Kennedy continued to be expressed Monday in editorials published by Mountain State newspapers.

One newspaper, the Wheeling Intelligencer, noting that "life must go on," started wondering what kind of administration President Johnson would give Americans during the coming year.

"The big question is: Will be (Johnson) go down the line for the New Frontier program, will he carry on faithfully in the course laid out by his predecessor, or will he revert to the character in which the American people knew him before he became Mr. Kennedy's running mate in 1960," the newspaper asked.

The Beckley Post - Herald, asked Monday "what makes it possible for this nation to be suddenly eaten up with hates and fears, both in localities and nationally; and how we can, as a nation, get back to proper morality, respect of the rights of the individual, and general acceptance of the responsibilities of citizenship.

"If we do not find a way to regain a high morality, beginning in all our individual communities, our children and grandchildren shall reap devastation growing from our ill-sown seeds of hate and fear. And John F. Kennedy shall have died in vain," the editorials said.

The Charleston Gazette Monday had a black - bordered editorial page which contained only a picture of Kennedy over a portion of the Roman Catholic Church's burial service. It said, "Absolve, we entreat You, O Lord, the soul of Your servant, John F. Kennedy, that he who is dead to the world, may live unto You, and wipe away by Your most merciful forgiveness what sins he may have committed in life through human frailty. Through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen."

The Charleston Daily Mail said Monday afternoon the moral of the historic weekend slayings "is almost Shakespeare's moral: One lapse from rectitude and the whole chemistry of a civil order is thrown into imbalance. Thereafter dark and malign forces take over, and even follows event inexorably with a momentum which cannot be stopped. It must spend itself, lapping against a thousand distant shores."

The Bluefield Daily Telegraph said former President Eisenhower may have been right when he referred to the assassination of President Kennedy as "an enviable death."

"If President Kennedy is to be envied now, it will be because he died while holding the highest office in he land, leading a triumphal parade with his pretty wife by his side, completely unaware that death's heavy hand was about to strike him down," the newspaper said. "If a political defeat was in the cards, he has escaped it, along with the heavy responsibilities of the most trying task on this planet."

Other editorial comment:

The Fairmont Times:

"For his country, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 46, has given the last full measure of devotion.

"Fresh in memory are the pictures of Caroline frolicking among the soldiers at Arlington and 'John-John' peering out from a hidey - hole under the presidential desk. What kind of a monster would wantonly deprive them on a living father?"

The Huntington Herald-Advertiser:

"The hate - mongers may not have killed John Kennedy. If so, the haters should be thankful that they do not have to answer directly for this cowardly crime.

"For the future, let us pray... that the statesmen and humanitarians among America's leaders join in unqualified...support of our new President."

The Morgantown Dominion-News:

"In the shock of President Kennedy's death by an assassin's bullets, the entire world has suffered a staggering blow. ..."

The Parkersburg Sentinel:

"...We can say this has happened before. But actually it never happened before like this. Here was the youngest President we ever had.

"Sorrow now is mixed with the feeling of cold anger that anyone could hate so much to pull the trigger that sent a bullet smashing into the brain of our young President."

The Welch Daily News:

"He was a young man, full of enthusiasm and energy. He had a happy faculty of making friends, even among those of opposite political views. Why would anyone want to take his life?"

The Martinsburg Journal:

"His death at the hands of an assassin is a black mark that will take years to erase from the escutcheon o' the United States of America."

The Weirton Daily Times:

"The President's youth, vigor and his force for peace and good will in the world will be sorely missed."

The Williamson Daily News:

"It is unfortunate that Mr. Kennedy is removed from the earth scene at such an early age and in such a barbaric manner in a country which boasts of being the greatest nation on the face of the earth."

The Charleston Sunday Gazette-Mail:

"The numbness clings, but the realization of the terrible truth gradually settles in our confused minds...

John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th President of the United States, is dead . . ."

Estimate Given On Allegheny Parkway Plan

W. Va. Cost $240 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd Monday said a feasibility report will indicate the proposed Allegheny Parkway through West Virginia would cost about $240 million.

He said it would recommend early development for sections of the parkway between Harpers Ferry and Keyser and from White Sulphur Springs to Princeton.

The feasibility study, Byrd said, being handled by the National Park Service and U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, will not be available before Congress ends it current session.

But he said he plans to press for authorization of the roadway during the early days of the next session beginning Jan. 3.

"I will seek the necessary initial planning and engineering moneys...as soon as possible," he said.

The highway would course through about 390 miles of the state, extending another 240 miles through Virginia and Kentucky to the Cumberland Gap National Historical Park.

It would enter the state at Harpers Ferry, traversing the eastern mountain region southward through the Welch area to the Virginia border.

Byrd said about $220 million of the cost would go for construction of the 22-foot-wide, bituminous - paved, two-way highway, erection of visitors centers, camp sites and other facilities. The other $20 million would be used for land acquisition.

"Access is planned to all contiguous recreational areas in the National Forests of West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky," he said, "so that hiking, fishing, swimming and boating will also be available."

Completion of the entire 630 miles of scenic highway would be expected in about 10 to 12 years after Congress authorizes initial planning and engineering funds.

Byrd gave this breakdown on the highway's course:

From Harpers Ferry, the road would pass near Berkeley Springs, then southwest to a point south of Springfield, Hampshire County.

It would continue along the Cacapon Mountain, then west to the Keyser vicinity. It would pass Laurel Dale, Mineral County, Scherr, Grant County, and on through the Allegheny Mountains.

The parkway would pass east of White Sulphur Springs and Union, Monroe County, to the vicinity of Ballard and Peterstown, also Monroe Counth.

The road would skirt the shore of the Bluestone Reservoir a short distance and move westerly to a point north of Lerona, Mercer County.

The route would cross the West Virginia Turnpike about five miles north of the Princeton toll gate, continuing to near Matoaka, Mercer County, and westward north of Welch.

From Welch, the road would continue westerly to the Mohawk and Panther areas of McDowell County and to the Virginia border.

W.Va. State Department Of Education Reports On Use Of Television In Area Classrooms

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Education Department says "television is not a panacea that will solve all our problems nor cure all our educational ills, but it is a power to enrich education in all of West Virginia."

In a news release, the department said educational TV "will never take the place of the good classroom teacher. It will simply enable her to do a more effective job.

"Still to be determined are the effects of these media upon the overall mental and emotional development of children." For this reason we shall proceed slowly with the introduction of television instruction so that, in general, no student is exposed to it for more than one or two 30-minute periods per day."

The release — discussing the progress of educational television efforts—said, "The dream of the statewide network, with production centers that would make opportunity for a good education available to all, seems very close now."

The State Educational Broadcasting Authority, given statutory authority by the 1963 Legislature, recently has taken under consideration proposals for a state network by either standard broadcast or closed circuit TV methods.

Congress has provided $32 million for allocation on a 50-50 matching basis to states for construction of educational broadcasting facilities. There is a $1 million limit in federal funds to any one state.

Some educational TV use has been undertaken in West Virginia, including Hancock and Ohio Counties which last year expanded their individual programs using broadcasts over an educational TV station in Pittsburgh.

Hardy County has been receiving such programs in some of its school rooms by way of a commercial TV station at Harrisonburg, Va.

The state authority is expected to submit proposals to the governor after it has drawn them up on the basis of feasibility studies on needs and costs for any statewide program.

'Rube' Parnham Taken By Death

Pitched For Orioles In International

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (UPI) — James (Rube) Parnham, about 69, former major league pitcher, collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack Monday while walking along a downtown street.

A native of nearby Heidelberg, Pa., Parnham started in organized baseball in 1914 with Raleigh, N.C. He was purchased by the old Philadelphia Athletics in the fall of 1915 and remained with that club until June of 1917 when he was sold to the Baltimore Orioles of the International League.

Parnham, a righthander, led the Orioles to seven consecutive IL pennants, starting in 1919.

He enjoyed his best season in 1923 when he posted a 33-7 record, including 20 straight victories. Other members of the Orioles' "Big Five" mound staff that year were Robert (Lefty) Grove, George Earnshaw, Al Thomas, and Jack Ogden.

Parnham is credited with teaching Grove how to pitch. Grove became famous with the Athletics. Parnham retired when given his release by the Orioles in 1927.

Survivors include four children, Mrs. Florence McKeeta, McKeesport; James Jr., and Mrs. Dorothy Herr, both of Harrisville, Pa., and Mrs. Blanche Mellinger, Newtown, Pa.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Midwest Gets Three Spots On Coaches All-America

Navy's Staubach Is Only Player Chosen From East

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Midwest, with three players, dominated the 1963 college All-America football team announced Monday by the American Football Coaches Association.

The Far West, the Southwest and the Midlands each placed two players on the mythical 11 while there was one representative each from the East and South. Only the Rockies, of the seven football geographical sections of the nation, were shutout.

Center Dick Butkus of Illinois, tackle Carl Eller of Minnesota and end Jim Kelly of Notre Dame were the Midwest stars named to the team. From the Far West came end Vern Burke of Oregon State and guard Dick Redman of Washington; from the Southwest, tackle Scott Appleton of Texas and fullback Tommy Crutcher of Texas Christian, while the players from the Midlands were guard Bob Brown of Nebraska and halfback Gale Sayers of Kansas.

The all-star team was rounded out by quarterback Roger Staubach of Navy, the East's lone representative, and halfback Jay Wilkinson of Duke, the only South player named to the team.

The coaches named Appleton as the lineman of the year and Staubach as the back of the year. Brown was singled out as the best college blocker of the year.

There were no repeaters from the coaches' 1962 All-America team. End Hal Bedsole of Southern California, the only junior on the 1962 mythical eleven, was named to the third team this year.

There are four juniors on the 1963 team—Staubach, Redman, Butkus and Sayers. All the rest are seniors.

In all, 567 members of the coaches association participated in the balloting.

All-Conference Football Team Has 12 Players

Four Championship Teams Get Awards; Wrestling Adopted

Roger Parker, who led Romney High School to the championship with a 7-0 record, was elected Coach of the Year at the fall dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Conference last night at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, W. Va.

Coaches of the 12 schools represented by football teams in the circuit honored Parker for the second time in three years. In 1961 Parker was voted Coach of the Year when Romney (6-0) shared the title with Keyser (5-0). Frederick "Tack" Clark was selected last year.

Twelve Players Named

Twelve players of six different schools were named to the first All-Conference team by the coaches last night. Keyser earned four berths, Petersburg, three, Romney, two, and Ridgeley, Southern of Oakland and Circleville one each.

The second team included gridders from eight schools. Beall led with three places and was followed by Romney, two, Franklin, Southern, Ridgeley, Circleville, LaSalle and Petersburg, one each.

The selections:

First Team

Ends: Robert Wolford, Romney; James Bosley, Keyser; Russell Burgess, Petersburg.

TACKLES: Jarit Kessel, Petersburg; Sam Bosley, Ridgeley.

GUARDS: James Athey, Keyser; Norman Sites, Petersburg.

CENTER: Dennis Crum, Keyser.

BACKS: Donnie Wade, Romney; John Thayer, Southern; Ronnie Williams, Circleville; Robert Barr, Keyser.

Second Team

ENDS: Larry Hedrick, Franklin; Joe Breinig, Romney.

TACKLES: Gary Baker, Beall; Tom Powers, Southern.

GUARDS: Ralph Folk, Beall; Anthony Amato, Ridgeley.

CENTER: Wendall Warner, Circleville.

BACKS: Ralph Spriggs, Beall; William Maloney, LaSalle; Roy Reynolds, Petersburg, and Doug Freeland, Romney.

Four Champions Honored

Championship teams in four sports, namely, football, baseball, cross country and track were officially recognized. Beall High School, coached by Gerard Calhoun, copped the track and field crown and received the trophy at the meet in May. Beall coached by Enordo "Moose" Arnone, also was declared the 1963 baseball champion and was awarded $15 with which to purchase an appropriate trophy. Keyser, Mathias and Romney were the runners-up. Romney was presented $10 to purchase a trophy. Keyser and Mathias were not eligible since both have won titles during the last five years.

Coach Robert Sirk was presented the trophy for Romney High School's cross country championship team. Elk Garden was declared the runner-up.

Romney High School was declared football champion and was awarded $20 with which to purchase a trophy. The season will be concluded Thanksgiving Day when LaSalle plays Beall at Frostburg. If Beall or Southern of Oakland finishes in the runner-up spot they will receive a trophy.

Coach Parker also was presented a trophy for being voted Coach of the Year.

Robert Calvert, principal of Romney High School, requested admission of the New Hampshire High School to the conference and it was approved. The new school, scheduled to open next year, will be the consolidation of Romney and Capon Bridge High Schools.

Wrestling Is Adopted

Wrestling was adopted as a new trophy sport in the conference and a school must participate in a minimum of four matches to qualify for the championship. Petersburg, Moorefield, Bruce, Beall and Keyser will have wrestling squads. Gary Butts, formerly of Berkeley Springs, is Moorefield's new mat mentor.

The circuit now sponsors six sports and the number of schools entered in each are: Basketball 20, baseball 17, football 12, track 9, cross country 5 and wrestling 5.

Plan Jr. High Conference

Arno Hott, coach at Capon Bridge High School, proposed a junior high conference in view of the fact that his school will become a junior high school next fall. He stated that other schools were interested and was hopeful the league will be formed.

An amendment to Section 1, Article 13, which deals with fining of schools failing to send representatives to the PVC meetings, was approved by a vote of 11-5. In the event of inclement weather or any other act of God which would prevent a school from attending a regular meeting such fines would be nullified. Several schools have paid $5 fines in recent years for non-attendance.

John R. Shelton, secretary, announced that the annual Junior High School Basketball Tournament will be held February 15, 22 and 25 at Keyser High School.

The P.V.C. track and field meet is set for Beall High School May 7, 1964, at 4 p. m.

Thanks To Bob Pence

The secretary was instructed to write a letter of appreciation to Robert E. Pence, supervisor of education for Allegany county, for promoting and scheduling cross county meets in the area.

It was voted to hold the spring meeting of the conference at the Old Homestead Hotel on March 9.

Seventy-three attended Monday night's dinner meeting at which Robert Hupp, principal of Petersburg High School, presided. All of the member schools were represented but Elk Garden.

A minute of silence was observed out of respect to the memory of the late president John F. Kennedy whose funeral was held Monday. The invocation was pronounced by Wendell Mathias, principal of Mathias High School.

Bears, Packers To Have Extra NFL Draft Choices

Mira, Shiner Among Monday's Top Prospects

By NORMAN MILLERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Chicago Bears will have four extra draft choices and the Green Bay Packers three when National Football League clubs stake their claims to the pick of the best available college players in Chicago next Monday.

The NFL will conduct its draft two days after the rival American Football League holds its selection meeting in New York on Saturday.

There will be 20 rounds in the NFL draft, making a total of 280 collegians selected. However five of the clubs have acquired the rights to additional players through previous trades, Commissioner Pete Rozelle has disclosed.

Besides the Bears and Packers, the clubs which have acquired extra draft picks as a result of trades are: the Los Angeles Rams (two extra) and the Detroit Lions and San Francisco Forty Niners (one each).

Last Pick First

Every NFL club has retained its first-round choice this year. The teams will select in inverse order of the combined conference standings after games of Dec. 1. Any ties in the standings will be resolved by a flip of a coin.

Most of the players drafted will be college seniors who have completed their eligibility. However, the rules provide that teams can stake a claim to anyone who began matriculating at a recognized college or university in 1960. Such players, known as "red shirts" or "futures" may be drafted this year even though they still have a season of college eligibility remaining.

Although pro clubs customarily keep their draft plans secret, many of the collegians likely to be picked on early rounds are well known.

Mira Top Prospect

Among the quarterbacks, the prize prospects are George Mira of Miami (Fla.), Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, Pete Beathard of Southern California, Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech and Dick Shiner of Maryland.

Three top interior linemen appear to be Carl Eller of Minnesota, Scott Appleton of Texas and Bob Brown of Nebraska; the leading ends are Billy Martin of Georgia Tech, Hal Bedsole of Southern California and Dave Parks of Texas Tech, and the top running backs, Mel Renfro, Oregon; Joe Don Looney, Oklahoma; Perry Lee Dunn, Mississippi; Marv Woodson, Indiana; Paul Warfield, Ohio State; Chuck Taylor and Tony Lorick, Arizona State; and Charley Harris, Colorado.

The list of 1963 college stars who were drafted last year as "futures" includes: Vern Burke, Oregon; Dennis Claridge, Nebraska; Mike Fracchia, Alabama Ken Dill and Whaley Hall, Mississippi; Pete Liske and Harrison Rosdahl, Penn State; Dave Mathieson, Washington State; Mel Profit, UCLA; Jack Cvercko, Northwestern; John Simmons, Tulsa; Don Trull, Baylor; Ed Adamchik and John Maczuzak, Pitt; and Mike Taliaferro, Illinois.

Silent Farewell Bade By Sports To John F. Kennedy

By The Associated Press

Sports bade a silent farewell Monday to the late sportsminded President, John F. Kennedy.

No horses ran at the tracks. Most of the big arenas where ice hockey and basketball games are played were darkened. Offices of sports organizations were closed.

Horse racing was canceled at Aqueduct, Pimlico, Narragansett Park, Golden Gate Fields, Waterford and Shenandoah Downs.

There was no harness racing at Roosevelt Raceway, Suffolk Downs and Washington Park.

The NCAA cross country championship, originally scheduled for Monday, was postponed until Tuesday at East Lansing, Mich.

Scores of college football games, scheduled last weekend, were postponed until this week, or canceled outright.

No professional basketball or hockey games were scheduled.

NCAA Cross Country Meet Set For Today

EAST LANSING, Mich (AP) —About 45 colleges and universities were expected Tuesday at the 25th annual NCAA Cross Country Championship at Michigan State University.

A field of some 240 runners was anticipated at the meet, which was postponed one day because of the funeral for President Kennedy.

Favored among the 23 team entries was San Jose State of California. San Jose won last year as the team's top man, Danny Murphy finished third.

Another West Coast team, Oregon, is regarded as a dark horse.

Strong showings also were expected from Kansas, Miami of Ohio, Ohio U., Notre Dame, host Michigan State, Western Michigan and Houston.

Terry Downes Stops Pusateri In Fifth

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Mike Pusateri, the light heavyweight protege of former world heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano, was beaten by Britain's Terry Downes Monday night. The referee stopped the fight at the end of five rounds of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Pusateri of Brockton, Mass., stayed on his feet throughout. But Downes carried the fight to the American the whole time. He cut Pusateri over the left eye before the first round ended and then opened another cut on the American's left cheek bone in the second round.

Pusateri's left eye had closed by the start of the fifth round. At the end of the round, the referee took a look at Pusateri's injuries and stopped the fight.

Downes weighed 169 pounds, Pusateri 165½.

THEY STACK UP GOOD—Here are Penn State's top quarterbacks—Pete Liske (top) and Ron Coates (center)—and their favorite target, Don Caum, star end who also was a quarterback.

HOT SAMMY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sammy Baugh, frest from the Texas Christian University campus completed 11 of 16 passes in his first pro football game in 1937 while leading the Washington Redskins to a 13-3 victory over the New York Giants.

Kelso Named Horse Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Kelso, winner of 31 of his 45 lifetime starts and with a bankroll of $1,581,702, again was named Horse of the Year Monday by the Daily Racing Form and the Morning Telegraph.

The 6-year-old gelding from Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Bohemia Stable, with a 1963 record of nine victories and two seconds in 12 races, was the unanimous selection of the 36 taking part in the poll. He also was named the best handicap horse of the year, rounding out four straight years of topping American thoroughbred racing.

Chateaugay from the Darby Dan Farm of John Galbreath was selected as the top 3-year-old of the year off his victories chiefly in the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes. He received 28 votes to four for Candy Spots and two each for Never Bend and Lamb Chop.

Rangers' Rookie Has Broken Wrist

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Meissner, rookie New York forward, suffered a broken right wrist in Sunday night's 3-3 tie with Toronto and will be lost to the Rangers for six to eight weeks, the National Hockey League team announced Monday.

Meissner was injured in the third period but continued to play. It was not until X-rays were taken later that the break was discovered.

The Rangers promptly called up Marc Dufour from the Baltimore team of the Amcrican Hockey League, as a replacement. Dufour, 22, had scored 12 points on three goals and nine assists through Baltimore's first 19 games.

Meissner, 23, had three goals and one assist with the Rangers.

Shenandoah Downs To Reopen Tonight

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va. (AP) — Shenandoah Downs, closed for three days because of President Kennedy's death, will reopen Tuesday night and will run an 18-race doubleheader Thursday.

The Thanksgiving Day program will be broken down into nine-race programs beginning at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The track's 42-night Thoroughbred race meeting will end Saturday.

Nicklaus Second Golfer To Have $100,000 Season

Palmer Continues As 1963 Leader

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus has become the second golfer in history to earn more than $100,000 in official PGA tournaments in a single season, but Arnold Palmer continues to lead this year's money-winning parade.

An unofficial PGA listing released Monday showed Nicklaus over the hundred-grand top as a result of earning $1,050 for finishing in a tie for fifth place in this weekend's Cajun Classic tournament at Lafayette, La.

That shoved his earnings for the year in official PGA tournaments to $100,040. Palmer who cracked the hundred-grand barrier for the first time earlier this year, is the only other player ever to have topped that figure. And Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., who currently is taking a vacation from tourney golf, continues to lead the 1963 dollar competition with $128,230.

Nicklaus' total, however, does not include the $50,000 he won for defeating Palmer in the World Series of Golf in Akron, which was not an official PGA tournament.

The order of the top 10 in this year's standings was unchanged as a result of the Cajun event.

Following Palmer and Nicklaus, in order, ar: Julius Boros $77,356, Tony Lema $67,112.52, Gary Player $55,455.00, Dow Finsterwald $49,862.68, Mason Rudolph $39,120.14, Al Geiberger $34,126.30, Don January $33,754.81, and Bob Nichols $33,604.

Loyola Tops Pre-Season Cage Ratings

Bearcats Second In UPI Selections

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Loyola Ramblers kings of the court by virtue of a single last-gasp basket, scored another victory over Cincinnati Monday when they were named college basketball's team "most likely to succeed" by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

It was Loyola No. 1 and Cincinnati No. 2 Monday in the pre-season ratings issued by the board for the 1963-64 court season which opens on Saturday Nov. 30.

Twenty-two of the 35 famous coaches who comprise the UPI board, whose ratings have become generally accepted as the most authoritative in the field, ranking the Ramblers from Chicago as best in the country. Cincinnati received 10 first-place votes and New York U. received three.

Cincinnati, trying for its third straight NCAA tournament championship, was upset, 60-58, by Loyola in the tourney finals on Vic Rouse's last-second tipin of a rebound.

With points allotted on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for votes from first through 10th places, Loyola received 325 points. A perfect score would be 350. Cincinnati had 285 and NYU in third place 205.

Completing the top five were Duke with 181 points and Wichita with 146.

Then came Arizona State sixth, Ohio State seventh, Texas eighth, Michigan ninth, and Oregon State 10th.

The "second 10" in the voting included, in order, Kansas State, Kentucky, UCLA, Providence, San Francisco, Illinois, Stanford, Oklahoma State, Villanova, and West Virginia.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Persons holding tickets to the Pitt-Penn State football game Nov. 23 may obtain refunds if they are unable to attend the game on Dec. 7.

Pitt officials said Monday all persons desiring refunds must submit their tickets with a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Pitt Athletic Office, P.O. Box 7436, Pittsburgh, Pa., 15213, or at Penn State, University Park, Pa., before 5 p.m. Dec. 3. No requests will be honored after Dec. 3.

Tickets printed with the Nov. 23 date will be honored at the Dec. 7 game.

The game was postponed in deference to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Morgan State Plays Bowl Game Dec. 14

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Morgan State College of Baltimore will play Florida A&M University in the Orange Blossom football classic in the Orange Bowl Dec. 14.

Dr. George W. Gore Jr., A&M President, announced selection of Morgan State Monday.

The announcement was to have been made during the classic's annual luncheon in Miami Monday, but the luncheon was cancelled in respect to the late President Kennedy.

Mountaineers Lack All-American Cager For First Time In Decade

But King Feels Another Will Come Along Soon

Editor's Note: This is the first of three dispatches previewing West Virginia University basketball for the 1963-64 season.

By ROBERT M. GORNALL
United Press International

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Although West Virginia University is without an All - American basketball player for the first time in nearly a decade, Coach George King doesn't think it will be long before another one comes along.

"It doesn't worry me that our All-Americans are gone now. We have been fortunate to have our share...and we are hoping to have another one up there."

Rod Thorn, the last of three successive All-Americans, graduated last year.

The era of All-America players started with Rod Hundley who was followed by Jerry West. West has since been hailed by some as the greatest basketball player ever to enter the National Basketball Association.

King said Thorn "had great ability. He did a lot of things well. He didn't have exceptional weight for a guard, but at that awkward position he did a fine job."

King said he didn't have anyone to fill Thorn's shoes at present, but added that he had a number of players he could count on.

The mentor, however, said "We actually don't know where we stand just now."

The team will make its first appearance at Furman Saturday.

This year's squad includes sophomore Bill Ryczaj, a 6-6 200-pound forward from Elizabeth, Pa., and veteran standouts Mike Wolfe, Bill Maphis, Tom Lowry, Marty Lentz and Ricky Ray.

Thorn was the No. 1 draft choice of the Baltimore Bullets of the NBA and is averaging about 12 points a game this year. King thinks he is doing well as a rookie.

"Very few rookies go in and do that well their first year," King said. "I only averaged 10 points a game when I started playing pro ball."

King played with the Syracuse Nationals five seasons and finished out his professional career with the Cincinnati Royals.

What about the Mountaineers exciting, fast - break play this year?

"That's our style of basketball," King said. "We will never stop it. We will never be involving in anything else and this year we expect to run even more."

King says team spirit this year "is the best I've seen since I have been here.

"Each man probably feels he has a little more to do this season. They have always felt they could show it, and now they have to," he said.

King feels the national reputation of WVU will not falter although the so-called "big newspaper names" are gone.

"A lot of the publicity comes from scheduling," he said. "We play in a lot of places throughout the country and it takes more than one All - American to make a name."

No Decision Made On Army-Navy Tilt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Monday no decision had been made on the playing of the 64th Army-Navy football game Saturday in Philadelphia,

There was no indication when official word might be handed down, a Pentagon spokesman said.

With funeral services for the late President John F. Kennedy conducted Monday and the day being proclaimed a national day of mourning, it appeared that a decision may be withheld until Tuesday.

AFL Schedule Changes Made

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Joe Foss Monday announced the revised schedule for the remaining four weeks of the American Football League season.

The changes, necessitated by the decision to postpone last weekend's game because of the death of President Kennedy, will prolong the regular season until Dec. 22, the date originally set for the championship playoff game.

Foss said a new date for the title game will be determined within the next several days. The Sunday television schedule for the remaining weeks of the season will be announced later this week.

Norfolk, W.Va. State To Play On Friday

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The postponed football game between W. Va. State and Norfolk (Va.) State College will be played Friday in the National Stadium in Washington, D. C.

The game was to have been played last Saturday.

Terps Return To Practice For Virginia Game

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The Maryland football team returned to practice Monday for its Thanksgiving morning game with Virginia. The game was postponed from last Saturday because of the death of President Kennedy.

The squad reported in somewhat subdued spirits but coach Tom Nugent seemed to snap the Terps out of it with a 90 minute workout which included a rough scrimmage for half of that time.

With Dick Shiner as quarterback for both the first and second teams, the varsity battled the freshmen while the third and fourth units scrimmaged between themselves.

Darryl Hill, the Atlantic Coast Conference's leading pass receiver, broke away several times on long runs from the wingback position.

It was the last contact work for the Terps, who will go through a light drill Tuesday and will taper off with a short workout Wednesday.

Coach Gets Checkup

Athletic Director J.W. (Bill) Orwig designated line coach Bob Hicks, Dickens' assistant for 11 seasons, as acting head coach this week.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Peace hinges on our courage, not appeasement — What happens to those nations that, to avoid fighting for their national honor or survival, choose instead the path of appeasement? Take Carthage for example. When mighty Rome threatened Carthage, the city fathers cried peace. So, the Romans demanded hostages and got them. Next the Romans asked for Carthage arms "to make sure the peace was safe." Carthage gave Rome arms. When Carthage was sufficiently weakened, Roman legions fell on the Carthaginians and wiped them out. The surviving Carthaginians were placed in chains and carted off to Rome as slaves. That was the end of Carthage.

Through the philosophy of appeasement, China was swallowed up by Communism. It happened when we dropped our support of the anti-Communist government of China and urged a coalition government of the Nationalists and the Communists. When Chiang Kai-shek would not agree, we withdrew our support and 650,000,000 Chinese became slaves of Communism. The appeasers chalked up another victory when the United States encouraged a coalition government in Poland which would include Communists. Soon there emerged a Communist-only government, which was quickly whisked behind the Iron Curtain. We could name numerous other instances of appeasement—victims of the old philosophy which was adopted many years ago by the peace-at-any-price citizens of ancient Carthage.

There are those who still have faith in the American heritage of bravery and love of freedom. Let our faith and our contempt of fear live up to our heritage. The peace of the world today rests on our courage.

Berlin blockades call for toughness — Again American troops have been harassed in their legitimate movement on the road to Berlin. Soviet troops blocked their passage, holding them up for some 40 hours. Let us remind ourselves that we helped win World War II, and, as one of the terms of settlement, we retained the right to move freely throughout the conquered country, Germany, both East and West, and we particularly retained the right of access to Berlin, whose control we shared with other countries. Despite this, our troops are constantly harassed. Have we stood up for our rights in any firm fashion? No. The present administration in Washington has done just about everything it can to make the Russians believe that we want peace so badly that we will give almost anything to get it. Such kowtowing, in addition to debasing a great nation and a great people, does not assure peace; it only invites further harassment and indignities.

But, someone asks, what can be done? Several things! For instance, how would it be if we announced that we propose to hold up all Soviet sea traffic through the Skagerrak and the Kattegat in the north and through the Dardenelles in the south for exactly as long as our convoys are held up on the Berlin road? This would mean limiting Soviet ship movements to the Arctic and the cold North Pacific ports and closing the Baltic and Black Sea exits. Against international law? Of course. But so is Russian interference with American traffic to Berlin. I am inclined to believe that this is the only kind of language the Kremlin understands.

When the President decides to be firm and treat the Russians as roughly as they treat us, he need have no fear about the American people. They will be ready to support him.

John Hanson, "First American President" — It was my pleasure on November 5 to address the Senate briefly on "the first President of the United States," John Hanson, of Maryland. That day was the 182d anniversary of the election of John Hanson as the first "President of the United States in Congress Assembled." That was the title given him when, on November 5, 1781, he was elected president of the Continental Congress. It is the restrictive words, "in Congress Assembled," that keeps John Hanson's name from the list of United States presidents, and from the number one spot in that list. John Hanson was born at Mulberry Grove, near Port Tobacco, Charles County. He served nine terms in the House of Delegates and 16 years in the Maryland Senate long before there was a United States of America. In 1773, John Hanson moved to Frederick County, and became quite active in pre-Revolutionary matters. He was a delegate to the General Congress in Annapolis in 1774, and was a member of the Maryland Convention of 1775 which issued the Declaration known as the "Association of Freedom of Maryland." History credits Hanson with helping to put Maryland into the Confederation, and Maryland's team play in the Confederation seasoned her for the Union later on. John Hanson became a member of the Continental Congress, and was elected its president. It was in this capacity that he tendered General George Washington the thanks of the Congress for Washington's victory at Yorktown. When John Hanson retired from public life he settled at Oxon Hill, Prince George's County. John Hanson of Maryland, first President of the United States "in Congress Assembled" was born, reared and educated in Maryland, and it was in Maryland that he worked, served his Country with distinction, retired and died.

It is well for us to hold onto the memory of the great men who formed our great Nation.

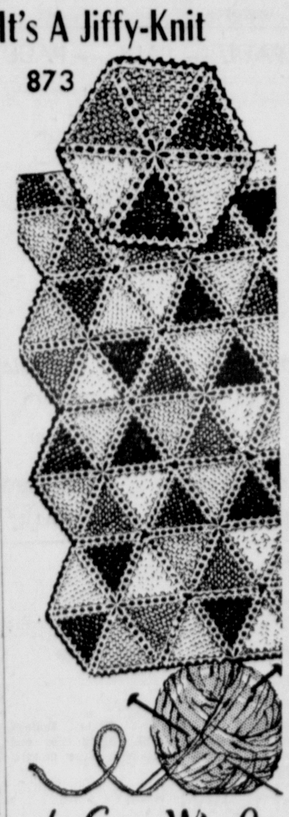

Battle to curb waste in foreign aid — As this is written, it looks as though the Senate is going to hold firm for Foreign Aid cuts and curbs. As you will recall, I spoke out for a 20 per cent cut now, with more cuts to come in succeeding years. Unless there's a last-minute reversal in the trend to economize, the cuts will come to about 18 or 19 per cent of the amount last requested by the President. He toned down his original request several hundred million after the Clay Report was publicized and the voice of the people began to be heard. The American people have shown their increasing disgust with our sending money to the Reds. The Senate reacted by voting to ban aid to all Communist controlled countries. Significantly, Congress has set the stage for a further major shrinkage in both military and economic aid over the next several years.

Opposition to the Foreign Aid program has focused largely on the wastefulness of the economic assistance given countries throughout the world, with excuses being made for military aid as a "mutual security" measure. However, recent events have directed attention to the even more reckless waste of the military assistance program. Arms placed in irresponsible hands have encouraged new wars and bloodshed. Indonesia, never a friend of the United States (as further demonstrated on October 21 when it refused to permit an American flag to be flown at the dedication of a new $8,000,000 highway which the United States paid for), has been enabled with our aid to challenge the new Malaysian Federation. The Viet Nam regime, never truly representative, made a complete mess of its fight against Communist forces, while using U. S. weapons and money (some $3,000,000,000) to suppress its own people. Both Algeria and Morocco have been enabled to fight a nasty border war only because of their supplies of U. S. arms. (These developments should be disconcerting to those few but quite vocal Americans who cry "Peace" and "Don't Cut Foreign Aid" in the same breath.)

Regardless of this year's final authorization and appropriations, next year should see the start of an exhaustive Congressional study of the whole concept of Foreign Aid.

Space agency's "growing pains" — The General Accounting Office has reported to Congress that the Space Administration's programs have cost at least $100,000,000 more than they should have, because of waste, mismanagement, spinning wheels, and misdirection. Another "sacred cow" is no longer sacred. The confused operation of the Space agency was on full display last week. It began shifting chairs and hats all over the place. New titles were created, some old ones were tossed out of the window, and personnel were shifted from one job to another, in the biggest office shuffle in the agency's history. Confused secretaries were almost at their wit's end in trying to keep track of who was who and in charge of what. An order went out to the harried employes: "If the boss calls, get his name."

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 NT | Pass | 3 NT | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

Opening lead: Queen of ♡

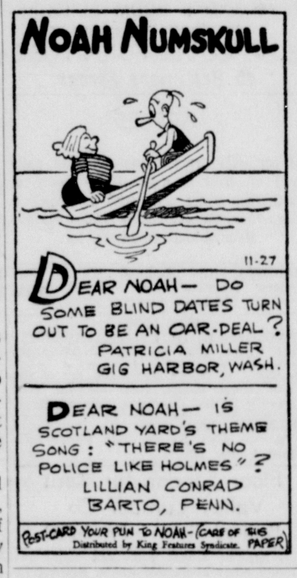

An extremely clever bit of deception by West in today's hand persuaded the declarer to change his course of action in a manner that dealt a fatal blow to the contract.

Three no trump was reached with dispatch and West opened the queen of hearts taken by declarer's king. South had four top tricks available in spades, hearts, and diamonds, so that he needed only five club tricks to bring his total to nine. If the adverse clubs were divided two-two, it would be possible to run the entire suit and register an overtrick. However, if declarer attempted to split the clubs and one of the opponents held the guarded queen, he would wind up with only two tricks in the suit since North had no entry other than the king of clubs.

As a safety precaution, South resolved to concede one round of clubs to the opposition. He first cashed the ace in his hand and, when both defenders followed with small cards, declarer continued with the jack intending to give up this trick. North's king would clear up the remaining clubs on the next round and permit the dummy to run the balance of the suit.

When South led the jack of clubs, West calmly, and without undue hesitation, followed with the ten. Declarer was all set to reach for North's four of clubs, and then he stopped. If West held both missing clubs, surely he would cover the jack with the queen in order to make certain of establishing his ten. His play of the ten, then, apparently marked his partner with the missing queen in which case a safety play would not be required for the king would pick up both honors.

South could see no reason to concede a trick that he did not have to lose, so he changed his mind and went up with the king of clubs from dummy. When East showed out, darkness quickly descended for, with the North hand retired from the play, South was able to win only seven tricks and the result was a 100 point setback. Sometimes it pays not to believe your own eyes.

Young Republicans Meeting Tonight

The Allegany County Young Republican Club will meet today at 8 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The meeting previously was scheduled for Wednesday, but was moved up a day, according to Ralph Buser, president.

Albert Paye, county engineer, will address the group, and Mrs. Betty Zucker, chairman of the dance committee, will give a report.

Buser said new members are invited. Refreshments will be served.

An ideal design for a suburbanite's coat - of - arms, suggests Zadok Dumkopf, would be a shield shaped like a front lawn displaying a rake and a snow shovel, rampant on a field of fallen tree leaves.

Local Paint Store Entered, Money Taken

City Police are investigating the burglary of a North Centre Street business which was discovered at the opening of the store for business on Saturday.

George Donald, an employe of Builders Paint and Supply Company, informed police between $150 and $175 had been taken from a safe at the store. There were no signs of a forced entry, police say.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CURA Planning Projects Will Begin Soon

Pittsburgh Firm Will Make Studies

The planning consultant for the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency expects to begin planning work for Cumberland projects next week, according to William F. DeMare, executive director.

The Cumberland agency recently selected the firm of Simonds and Simonds, Pittsburgh, to prepare the physical plans for the Center City general neighborhood renewal project and to prepare plans for the George Street Urban Renewal Project.

The Cumberland planning project will be done by the firm's Pittsburgh office, which has a staff of over 20 men experienced in all stages of planning, including urban renewal, land planning, economic analysis, highway and traffic planning and community facilities.

Agree On Scope

Principals of the firm are John Ormsbee Simonds and Philip Douglas Simonds, and R. Jackson Seay Jr., partner in charge of planning, who will be in charge of the Cumberland Urban Renewal project planning.

The firm has completed several dozen planning projects in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York, Florida and Illinois in recent years in the fields of regional and county planning, parks and recreation and site planning, and is internationally famous in the field of urban renewal design.

Mr. DeMare said the firm's staff will use the CURA office quarters in City Hall for field work here.

The CURA board headed by Marion T. Powers recently met here with Mr. Seay to reach an agreement on the scope of the work the firm will do here.

The planning projects will be financed by advances made recently by the Urban Renewal Administration.

Included was $76,590 for preparing plans for the "center of the city" rehabilitation project which is expected to take about 10 years, and $72,500 for financing surveys and actual planning of the George Street Urban Renewal Project.

Set Aside Grant

CURA officials were also advised that the federal agency has also set aside a federal grant of $1,556,282, which is estimated as the government's share — three-fourths—of the project.

It is anticipated that the local share of about $500,000 can be financed in whole or in part by the federal government in the form of credits for existing local public improvement projects, according to the Capital Improvement Program report approved by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

The report said that if this is not possible, the local share may be financed by improvements within the project area such as the first stage of the proposed inner loop project.

LaVale Optimists Honor Youths

Clyde Lowstuter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Robert Lowstuter, Coverwood, third from left, is shown receiving a plaque from Harry Eisentrout, president of the LaVale Optimist Club, as an outstanding boy in LaVale. He was honored in connection with the club's observance of Youth Appreciation Week. Looking on are Ken Miesmer, next to Mr. Eisentrout, and Terry DeMott, who were runners-up for the LaVale honor. The presentation took place last night at the Continental Restaurant.

Man Gets $125 In Garrett Co. Armed Robbery

Chimney Corners Restaurant Hit

An armed robbery over the weekend at Chimney Corners Restaurant at the intersection of U.S. Route 50 and 219 about eight miles southwest of Oakland is being investigated by authorities of Maryland and West Virginia.

Sheriff James E. Frantz last night said Mrs. William Smith, wife of the proprietor of the restaurant at Red House, was ordered to remove about $125 from a cash register, place it in a brown paper bag and hand it over to the man who carried a single-barrel shotgun into the restaurant.

Two witnesses at the restaurant were ordered to lie down on the floor near the kitchen during the holdup about 4:30 p. m. on Saturday. There were no customers on the premises.

Wore Hunting Jacket

Authorities said the holdup man was reported to have been dressed in a hunting jacket and dungarees and had an oversize hunting cap pulled down over his head.

After getting the money from Mrs. Smith, the man left the restaurant and got into a black and red Ford which headed west on Route 50 in the general direction of Kingwood in Preston County, W. Va.

The proprietor was reported to have been in the Smith home to the rear of the restaurant at the time of the holdup. The sheriff notified West Virginia State Police at Kingwood, who set up a road block on Route 50.

Police Alerted

Maryland State Police and authorities in other sections of nearby West Virginia also were notified of the armed robbery.

One of the waitresses thought the holdup man was a customer as he walked into the restaurant late in the afternoon.

She began to turn on lights in the restaurant but the man ordered her and the other waitress to lie down on the floor.

The proprietor's wife was then ordered to take the cash from the register, place it in the paper bag and hand it over to the man.

Assisting Sheriff Frantz are Cpl. Robert D. Henline, Tfc. D. A. Tucker and Trooper Ronald Lewis of the Maryland State Police.

Drums, Bells, Bagpipes Gave Melancholy Music For Kennedy Funeral

Muffled drums, church bells and bagpipes.

Their sounds were different but all joined in providing a melancholy musical background for the burial yesterday in Arlington National Cemetery of President John F. Kennedy.

The day, proclaimed by President Lyndon B. Johnson as a national day of mourning, must go down in American history as one of the saddest days of the 20th century.

Although death is a common occurrence, the death of a President of the United States is not. In the 164 years beginning with the death of George Washington in 1799, only 31 American presidents have died. Although John F. Kennedy was called the 35th President of the United States, he actually was only the 34th man to hold the office. Grover Cleveland had two unsuccessive terms as President so he was both the 22nd and the 24th. Three former Presidents, Herbert Hoover, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, still live.

Of the 31 Presidents who have died since 1799, only eight died in office. And of the eight, only four were victims of assassination. And of the four none was as young as John F. Kennedy, 46.

It has been 18 years since the last presidential funeral, for Franklin D. Roosevelt. Although his death was a shock to a nation engaged in World War II, FDR was an older man and his deteriorating physical appearance was a clue that his death was not far off.

Virtually all local activity that could be stopped yesterday did stop for the several solemn hours between the removal of President Kennedy's casket from the Capitol rotunda and the burial in Arlington.

Fire Damages Dwelling On Hazen Road

A fire which was fought by two volunteer companies late yesterday afternoon caused extensive damage to the interior of the two-story frame dwelling occupied by the Murl Leasure family on Hazen Road.

Fred Purnell, fire chief of the Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company, said the fire apparently started after a 14-year-old member of the family had placed a skillet on the electric stove in the kitchen.

The youth then went into another room to switch the television set on, the fire chief said. Meanwhile grease in the skillet ignited and the fire spread to the kitchen wall and an adjoining hall and the flames went up into a second floor room used for storage purposes.

Firemen from Baltimore Pike assisted the Bedford Road firemen in fighting the fire, which was kept confined to the dwelling's interior.

Five pumpers responded to the fire and volunteers from Bedford Road were on the scene until about 7:30 p. m. They were called about 5 p. m.

The firemen from Bedford Road had to travel about three miles to the fire. The dwelling has about six rooms, and the flames damaged the kitchen, upstairs room and hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Leasure were not at home at the time of the fire, said Chief Purnell.

Players Will Meet

The Algonquin Players will meet at City Hall auditorium tomorrow at 8:45 p. m. Committee reports on the recent production, "Marriage Go Round," will be given.

Hardy Woman To Face Jury In Shooting

Lottie Southerly Waives Hearing

A 52-year-old Moorefield, W. Va., woman, who was charged with malicious assault in the November 10 shooting of her husband, waived a preliminary hearing Saturday and was bound over to the grand jury of the February term of Hardy County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Lottie Southerly, wife of Clarence Southerly, 54, posted bond of $2,500 following her arrest.

Her husband, Clarence Southerly, 54, was admitted to Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, after one shot from a .22 revolver penetrated his left side and came out near his hip.

Another shot pierced his left hand and entered his right chest, according to authorities, who said the man has been discharged from the hospital.

P. W. Clarke, justice of the peace at Moorefield, said the $2,500 bond has been continued pending the action of the grand jury which is scheduled to convene the third Tuesday of February.

Mrs. Southerly was represented by Attorney Ralph J. Bean when she appeared before the justice of the peace on Saturday and waived a preliminary hearing.

The shooting, which reportedly occurred during a family altercation, was investigated by Trooper A. J. Wade of the State Police.

City's Water Supplies Are Still Dropping

Stopping Of Leaks May Reverse Trend

The seemingly inexorable effects of the drought upon this city's water supply continued last week but a few bright spots were beginning to appear.

A report by Ray Nixon, filter plant foreman, showed that on Sunday, Lake Gordon was four feet below the spillway and that Lake Koon was down 20 feet.

The Sunday before, Lake Gordon was five feet, four inches below the spillway and Lake Koon was down 18 feet.

The net effect of the week's water consumption was to decrease the city's water reserves by up to 50,000,000 gallons.

The bright spots include the ban on unnecessary uses of water, the stopping of three leaks in water transmission lines and a slight increase in the flow of streams which feed the city's two big reservoirs in the Lake Gordon area.

Most Cooperate

Cumberland area citizens and industries dependent upon the city for their water supplies, have generally cooperated fully with the Water Department ban on waste, and most have adopted suggestions for cutting down all water consumption until steady rains come to replenish the supply in the reservoirs.

Another bright spot was the closing last week of three big leaks in one of the city's 36-inch transmission lines in the Golden Lane area here.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said crews headed by Ray Nixon, plant foreman, repaired the leaks which were wasting about 1,000,000 gallons of water each day.

The biggest of the leaks in the 36-inch line was wasting an estimated 500,000 gallons of water daily. An estimated 400,000 gallons of water was gushing from a second leak and up to 200,000 gallons from a third leak found and closed by the Water Department crew.

Will Locate Leak

Mr. Light said evidence of a fourth leak has been found on the other side of the hill from the biggest of the breaks repaired last week.

He said crews from the filter plant will go to the area this morning and attempt to pinpoint the source of the leak and then dig down and work out a plan for repairing the line.

Another bright spot is that the watershed is beginning to let down some of the water soaked up during recent rains.

Mr. Light said Mr. Nixon reported that some of the small streams which feed the Lake Gordon and Lake Koon have started to flow again.

Report Notes Need For New Fire Station

Provisions for a new fire substation are included in the capital improvements program which will be incorporated into the comprehensive plan for the city's development during the next six years.

The report notes that the National Board of Fire Underwriters has pointed out the lack of service in the Williams Road section of Cumberland and has recommended that a substation be built in the vicinity of Williams Road and Louisiana Avenue.

In the comprehensive plan, the report said, it was also pointed out that the area between Williams Road and Oldtown Road has a potential for future growth which emphasizes the need for better fire protection.

The plan recommended that the substation be built either in the vicinity of Williams and Louisiana or Williams and Winifred roads, depending on the availability and cost of available land.

The report said the Fire Department has estimated that, exclusive of land, the following would represent costs in building and equipping such a station:

Building, $40,000; pumper, $26,000; new fire alarm equipment, $3,000, and additional annual operating expense including men, $50,000.

The financing of the building and equipment, the report said, must come from the general fund, adding that if money could be set aside from current income, the additional cost of interest on bonds could be eliminated.

The report also noted that the Fire Department has indicated that a complete overhaul of the fire alarm system is necessary. The present system, it said, is composed of over 60 miles of wire, some of which is 40 years old.

The system, the report said, is constantly being expanded and needs a complete overhaul, estimated to cost $20,000. Costs should be met from current general fund revenues, the report said.
